

Kohler Hits at 'Chicanery' in Badger Battle

Says Teachers' Retirement Fund Carefully and Safely Invested

(By The Associated Press)

Concentrating their final campaign drives on lake shore communities, former Gov. Walter J. Kohler, Republican gubernatorial nominee, and John B. Chapple, Republican nominee for United States senator, talked to audiences in Milwaukee and suburban West Allis last night.

Both candidates addressed a meeting in Concord hall, West Allis, and Mr. Kohler spoke later at a rally of the Third Ward club of Milwaukee. Chapple gave six talks during the day and evening.

Kohler departed from his prepared address to defend himself against what he termed a piece of "vicious political chicanery."

"A Madison newspaper, the Capital Times, has made a vicious attack on me in connection with the teachers' retirement fund," he said. "They are trying to make the teachers' retirement fund the security of the retirement fund."

"The fund is under the administration of the state board of education. These funds have been watched as scrupulously and as carefully as any funds ever were watched. They have had the finest attention of conscientious, upright persons."

Bonds Are Safe

"There is approximately $23,000,000 in the entire teachers' retirement fund. Of this amount a portion is invested in utility bonds. These are safe. They have depreciated in value only one-half of the amount that an average of 500 representative issues have depreciated. They are invested in as safe a thing as there is today. Not a cent has been lost on them, and not one has defaulted in interest."

The former governor said the attack was a political trick to frighten 17,000 school teachers on the eve of their convention in Milwaukee, and said it was the hope of his opponent to switch the vote of the teachers six days before election by vicious insinuations.

He referred to the Insull collapse as a "national scandal" and denounced the pyramiding of holding companies as in the Insull case.

There is immediate need, Mr. Kohler said, for stimulation of business in the whole Wisconsin country, and he said that the state should, he said, must furnish the most definite initiative.

The stagnation into which the various economic groups in Wisconsin, particularly the farmers and workmen, have been plunged during the long period of depression, is a problem that concerns the entire state and must be solved by the entire state working together for the general common good," the former governor said.

Farmers Need Markets

The primary need of the farmers is for markets with purchasing power, particularly markets near home, and the only answer to that need must be more jobs and larger pay checks in the individual cities.

"To provide enough jobs to go around, there must be more industrial activity, but larger production can be sustained in the long run only if customers can be found to buy the product—farmers, workers, professional people, mechanics and other groups who have some money they can spend."

Industry has made a beginning, he said, in a concerted plan to rehabilitate plants, repair and paint buildings or add to them, overhaul and replace machinery and equipment, and get the entire facilities in good shape.

"Some companies," he said, "have increased their working schedules one day per week during the winter months. It is to be hoped that many more will be able to do this, for thus more families will buy more goods of all kinds, and the outlook will be just that much better for them, for the farmers, and for the entire community."

Assaults Duff

Chapple said his Democratic opponent, F. Ryan Duffy, is either falsifying to get votes or he does not realize that there are powerful forces at work chiseling away at the foundations of our American home life, our American morals and belief in God.

"If Duffy does realize," he said, "that faith in our American economic system and faith in all men is being broken down by his frank and secret radio in order to create a panic, then he is uttering deliberate falsehoods in a frenzied desire to extort votes."

"If he is ignorant of the fact that there is the national menace to which I refer him to the last encyclical issued by Pope Pius I refer him to the last public address made by the head of the Masonic order, the late supreme commander, Leon M. Abbott. I refer him to the report issued recently by the seven Protestant denominations and to the address made by the Rev. Adolph Milner at the state Lutheran conference."

"These unquestioned, moral statements declare that open and disguised forces are trying to wrench belief in God out of the hearts of people everywhere and that our American institutions are being threatened with destruction. These judgments of great thinkers are non-partisan and non-political."

Citizen Loans to City Total $85,000

With the loan of $2,000 to the city by citizens so far this month, a total of $85,000 has been loaned to the city on its citizen-loan plan since its inauguration several months ago, according to Joseph A. Kox, city treasurer. Loans will be taken during the remainder of November.

Man Carries $2,500 In Cash Because He Is Afraid of Banks

Carrying more than $2,500 on his person in bills, silver and gold, Peter Boyce, 52, a De Pere bachelor, was held by police Tuesday night at the police station for investigation after he had been picked up by officers at Appleton Junction. The officers stopped the man to question him and when they searched him they found he was carrying almost $500 in silver and gold and a large number of bills, totaling more than $2,000. He was brought to the station and held there for investigation. When it was learned that he was from De Pere he was sent back there with instructions to do something with the money besides carry it with him. The man said he had been carrying the cash about with him for years because he was afraid to put it in a bank.

Relief Workers Given Pointers By Miss Foster

Second-class Cities Just "Entering Deep Water," She Says

Pointers on the administration of public relief in Milwaukee, which involves the support of 32,000 families, were given to the administrators of Appleton relief by Miss Edith Foster, Milwaukee, assistant secretary of the Wisconsin Conference of Social Welfare work, at a meeting at city hall Wednesday afternoon.

She explained that while Milwaukee's relief load became serious two years ago, Appleton and other cities of the second class are just heading into deep water. A year ago, she said, Milwaukee had 10,000 families on its list, while this year there are 32,000.

She described the organization of the Milwaukee relief body, the system of home visitation, the commissary department, from which all food is distributed, and the Milwaukee policies on rents, water, fuel, food, and other types of aid.

Food First Relief

Food is the first relief provided, she explained. In cases where deplorable conditions exist, including their rent or buying their fuel, stating that they have enough money to secure food, the relief department provides food, and insists that the private funds be used to pay rent and buy fuel. This is done, she said, because non-deserving families may call for help on rent and fuel because it involves no discomfort while obtaining food means that they must call for their orders at the commissary department.

At the present time Milwaukee is spending $450,000 a month on rent, 50 per cent of the families on the list, an average of $16.00 per family, each month. Unable to continue this heavy expenditure, attempts are being made to bring the average rent down to $10 a month. It was suggested at the meeting that in cases where the city pays the rent, the money be placed in a trust fund from which the city treasurer may secure the amount of the taxes on that particular property at tax time, thus avoiding paying rent to a property holder who eventually will go on the delinquent tax list. Rent paid for single individuals in Milwaukee amounts to $150 a week during warm weather, and $2 a week during the winter. Single persons are given $1 meal tickets, which provides them with 14 meals a week at restaurants with which the relief agency has made a flat-rate arrangement.

Milwaukee also is working on a plan to put 10,000 men to work four hours a day, five days a week, at 50 cents an hour.

Diet Is Varied

Food orders are written at the home by a visitor, who calls on each home once every two weeks. These orders are checked at the office, and the next day the head of the family calls at the commissary department for his food. The diet is varied every month insofar as it is possible. During a visit to a home the visitor checks on the amount of food needed, and if there is a surplus from the previous two-week period that particular item is stricken from the next period's order. These visits often reveal changes in the financial situation of a family which results in dropping it from the relief list. Each investigator has 150 families on his list, which means 14 calls a day every day.

The need of the cooperation of every taxpayer in investigation work was stressed by the Milwaukee worker. Instead of criticizing, she said, every resident should turn in a report to the relief office every bit of information he has concerning a family receiving relief, as the home visits will not reveal all conditions. In Milwaukee, she explained, much of the investigator's information comes through anonymous letters from neighbors and about 80 per cent of these letters transmit authentic information, saving in the aggregate thousands of dollars.

She spoke of the cooperation of Koshcon employers, who make a report to the relief office of the new employees taken on every day. This helps materially in cutting off the aid of families who have found other means of support.

Sixty-five per cent of the new families on the public relief list in Milwaukee, she said, are unknown to relief agencies, indicating that more and more people who always have been self-supporting are now forced to seek public relief.

Contending that the matter involved safety, health and sanitation, Alderman Davis presented the reasons offered by the milk dealers that after 7 o'clock there would be less danger of money being stolen from milk bottles, less danger of milk wagons being run into by early morning drunken drivers, and less chance of the milk freezing and pushing off the cap so dogs and cats can lap the top. The lot of the milkman, they also pointed out, would be much improved if he did not have to arise at 3 or 4 o'clock in the morning.

Council Won't Regulate Hours for Milk Delivery

The council refused Wednesday night to get excited about the clatter of milk wagons in the early morning hours, the lapping of milk from bottles by dogs and cats, and the lifting of coins from milk bottles. A proposed ordinance prohibiting the delivery of any milk in the city before 7 o'clock in the morning between Oct. 15 and April 15 was defeated, despite the fact that it was pointed out by Alderman C. O. Davis that the ordinance was requested by all milk dealers except one.

Mayor John Goodland, Jr. pointed out that the council could not concern itself with the problems of a particular group of businessmen. He argued that as the council cannot tell a butcher or a grocer when to open his store, neither can it regulate the hours for the delivery of

Schmedeman Says Foe Catspaw of Utility Interests

Cites Investment of Funds In Insull Securities As Proof

(By The Associated Press)

Mayor A. G. Schmedeman of Madison, Democratic nominee for governor, told an audience at Manitowish last night that the existence of $1,018,733 worth of so-called Insull securities in the teachers' retirement fund is proof that his Republican opponent, Walter J. Kohler, is a "catspaw of utility interests of the Insull stripe."

Mayor Schmedeman referred to the state teachers' annuity and investment board as a Kohler-appointed board and said that the former governor has been "patting himself on the back" for months because the annuity board refused to make the Capital City bank, of which Schmedeman was formerly a director, a loan.

"This Kohler-appointed board which refused even to hear the Capital City bank's application for a loan has generously donated more than $200,000 toward the expenses of Sam Insull's hurried trip to Greece," he said.

Would Revamp Board

"As governor, I will have the opportunity to make appointments which will wrench control of this board from the present stupid worshippers of big business and big-hearted backers of Sam Insull's European tours."

Mayor Schmedeman also charged Mr. Kohler is appearing in a "Jekyll and Hyde role" on the proposed utility amendment to be voted on in Nov. 8 election.

"As a candidate for governor and a politician," he said, "Mr. Kohler is for the amendment. As a 'Mr. Kohler' is for the amendment. As a member of the Wisconsin Manufacturers' association, of which he is a former president, he is unalterably opposed to the amendment."

"I would like to suggest that Mr. Kohler, the politician, and Mr. Kohler, the industrial magnate, go into a huddle and get their signals straightened out."

Schmedeman said he endorses the proposed amendment and urged that voters of Wisconsin not only pass the amendment but also elect to state officers men who are sworn to uphold the provisions contained in it, "not men who are for it politically, but men who are for it in their hearts and their business and industrial relations are against it."

Doubts Dry Law Stand

F. Ryan Duffy, Democratic nominee for United States senator, speaking at Racine last night, challenged the sincerity of the Republicans in the declarations of their prohibition plank.

"I predict that if Mr. Hoover was president and a bill was passed modifying the Volstead act, he would veto it," Duffy said.

"In spite of the attempt to fool the people, there is not much confusion in the question of prohibition. The drys are lined up behind Hoover and Chapple, while those who seek relief from the intolerable conditions brought about by prohibition now recognize that their only hope is in the election of Roosevelt and Democratic senators and congressmen."

Duffy said he favored development of the Great Lake-St. Lawrence waterway and said he would concern himself with doing everything possible to restore this country's foreign trade in order that the waterway may be of some value to the people.

Black Creek Group to Plan Farm Institute

Business men of Black Creek and farmers from that vicinity will meet in that village Friday evening to discuss preliminary plans for a farmers' institute to be held there next month. Tentative dates for the institute are Dec. 8 and 9, according to Gustav A. Sell, county agent, who will attend the meeting. Another institute is to be staged at Hortonville on Dec. 6 and 7, and Mr. Sell plans to meet with a committee in that village next week to discuss plans for the event.

Anonymous letters from neighbors and about 80 per cent of these letters transmit authentic information, saving in the aggregate thousands of dollars.

She spoke of the cooperation of Koshcon employers, who make a report to the relief office of the new employees taken on every day. This helps materially in cutting off the aid of families who have found other means of support.

THE DREGS OF DEBATE

At the end of every campaign the time arrives when the voters are set in their choices but the candidates cannot believe it. The loser snatches at straws, becomes intoxicated with the hope of his supporters, and is assured that the miracle of mass conversion to his cause is in progress. The winner, unless he is a very well seasoned politician, is overcome with a superstitious dread that the prize is about to be snatched from his hands. In this atmosphere the loser generally resorts to a whirlwind campaign which is invariably harder on his own health than on the opposition, and the winner is equally prone to make promises in all directions. The final mood of a campaign is

Middle West is Battle Ground of 2 Major Parties

Region of Vital Importance to Candidates in National Race

Chicago.—A rapid-fire drive by Republicans and Democrats for the campaign for now until Election eve has been launched in the corn belt, admittedly the most important segment in the jig saw puzzle of the national political picture.

The populous middle west, studied with interesting political particularities, has been strenuously fought over from the beginning of the campaign for votes to elect Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Democratic candidate for president, and for the reelection of President Herbert Hoover.

Now, the voters of the great area drained by the Mississippi river, and the contiguous states, will hear the covered by Roosevelt, ex-president of the United States, and the Republicans are counting heavily upon these two addresses to help balance the scales in Illinois, scene of state battles that have created cross currents puzzling to most observers.

The president will make his first formal speaking appearance in Illinois Friday afternoon at Springfield. That evening, he will move to St. Louis for another address, whether the Democrats in the House were as bad as they are painted, but the schism which has split the Republican party in two parts along the lines of 1912, the most interesting thing which the election returns will show is how closely Franklin D. Roosevelt will come to duplicating the havoc wrought in the Republican ranks in 1912 by his fifth cousin Theodore.

For by one of the strange coincidences of history he is the candidate of almost the same elements of the Republican party which went to make up the Bull Moose party in any broad national view of the election this tendency to political realignment overshadows in dynamic importance the personalities, and the alleged issues, and the re-creations.

Yet among the matters still being discussed, there is one which, though it is not likely to affect the outcome, is likely to have important consequences. Mr. Baker called attention to it in his Brooklyn speech on Tuesday night. It is Mr. Hoover's violent agitation of the tariff issue. In his large set speeches Mr. Hoover has merely talked the ordinary language of a completely unenlightened high protectionist, but in his recent letter to the chairman of the Tariff Commission he has gone beyond that, making a direct appeal to a collection of special interests.

At Parkersburg, West Virginia, for example, he told his hearers that they were suffering "from the competition of Japanese skilled workers." In his letter to the Tariff Commission on October 24 he listed eighteen classes of goods produced by a strange coincidence, in the thirty states, that he has some hope of carrying, and then he added, in the manner of Speaker Garner's famous postoffice bill, the names of all the cities that produce these goods. Thereupon, he ordered the Tariff Commission to report to him at once whether the tariff duties should be raised, and just to show how much he respected the Commission as a semi-judicial body, he informed them that the depreciation of currencies had "widened the difference in cost of production" and by inference has made necessary higher duties.

The thing to remember about this episode is that the Tariff Commission reported on this very problem last spring and rejected the whole idea that depreciated currencies had affected our imports; that the chairman of the Tariff Commission, Mr. O'Brien, who is a Republican and a protectionist, testified publicly that the whole principle of tariffs

Johnson Named To Direct Red Cross Roll Call

Expected to Appoint Committees for Campaign In Few Days

George E. Johnson yesterday was named chairman of the county Red Cross roll call. Announcement of the appointment and acceptance was made yesterday afternoon at a meeting of the county officers and directors and about 30 representatives of the various county districts. Arthur P. Jensen, county Red Cross chairman, presided at the meeting.

Johnson elaborated on the need for a strong county Red Cross chapter and mentioned that the county's membership quota is 2,200 persons. He said he will appoint his committees within the next few days, after which the drive will get underway.

Cotton goods distribution and selection of a county chapter chairman also were discussed. In the latter case a committee was appointed to select a chairman from a list of names recommended. Estimates as to the amounts of cotton cloth needed by the various districts in the city were presented by delegates and the need for cooperation in the winter's relief program was impressed upon them. The cotton cloth will be made up into clothing locally and then distributed. In other cases the goods only will be distributed where it is felt women can make the articles of wear.

The order for the cotton cloth for Outagamie co, which will be placed next week, should be received by Dec. 12.

To offset currency depreciation was an economic fallacy, and that the Treasury threw the weight of its opinion against it. Yet in the last days of the campaign Mr. Hoover has revived the agitation, ignoring everything that his own officials and his own beloved Tariff Commission has said on the subject.

The mischief lies in the fact that in a vain effort to obtain a few votes the President has encouraged all the lobbyists to descend upon Washington and keep the United States embroiled with thirty different demands. No doubt Mr. Hoover will be glad to forget this agitation once the election is over, but the lobbyists of special interests won't forget it. So, as the price of an electioneering stunt, the government will have to struggle for months to come with the pressure of these interests at a time when every disinterested person is bending all his efforts to achieve some kind of commercial peace which will bring to an end the world-wide economic war.

It is too big a price to pay for any man's candidacy. Copyright, 1932, by Walter Lippmann

Sidelights on Politics

Hollywood.—If the planets aren't telling a fib to Astrologer Llewellyn George, the Democratic donkey should thank his lucky stars that Election day is Nov. 8 instead of Nov. 10.

George, who is executive vice president of the National Astrological association, says that, judging from planetary positions it looks as if the donkey's nose will hit the tape first in the election race, but if the election were held two days later, the stars tell George, it would be a victory for the elephant.

Explaining what a whale of a difference a couple of days make, George says the moon, signifying the public, is favorably aspected to Saturn, planetary ruler of the Democratic party. This, he says, shows the public turning to, or favorable to the Democrats.

But the moon changes "Signs" Nov. 8 and enters the first sign of the Zodiac aries, indicating the start of a new cycle. On Nov. 10, says George, the planet Jupiter, which rules the elephant or G. O. P., receives good aspects signifying a Republican triumph if the election were held on that date.

Cargo of German Pulp Arrives at Manitowoc Port

Report Product Is to be Sold to Valley Mills at Less Than $28 a Ton

A cargo of pulp, which will be reloaded into cars for Fox river valley cities for sale in mills at less than $28 a ton, reached Manitowoc on a freighter from Germany yesterday. The boat was the first ever to enter Manitowoc from Germany.

Although the exact destination of this pulp in the valley has not been learned, information received here indicates that the product will be offered for less than $28 per ton. The cost of pulp production in valley mills at the present time is between $35 and $40 a ton. In 1929, the average cost of production was between $48 and $53.

The craft is the Breitenburg of Hamburg and is piloted by Capt. Peter Jars, 54, who has sailed more than 30 years. During the war he was in submarine service of the German Navy. The ship left Hamburg and proceeded to Revel, Estonia, where it loaded the pulp and cleared port on Sept. 22. The trip was delayed because of the necessity of lightening the cargo while on the St. Lawrence river and reloading again at Kingston, N. Y.

The freighter carries a crew of 17 men. It is 240 feet long and of 2,300 ton capacity. It left Manitowoc today for Fort William, Canada, to load wheat for Germany.

The entire matter has been impartially and finally settled by the orderly process of law for which purpose the appeal was taken.

Delegates Expect to Set Date for Milk Strike at Two-Day Session

Several hundred delegates and a large crowd of visitors are expected here Nov. 10 and 11 for a special convention of the Wisconsin Cooperative Milk Pool, according to W. M. Singler, president, whose office is in Appleton. He estimated that about 250 delegates and several hundred visitors would be in attendance at the meeting.

The purpose of the meeting, Mr. Singler said, is to set a date for a milk strike in an effort to get better prices for milk in Wisconsin, to meet with delegates of the Wisconsin Dairy Federation to discuss a proposed affiliation to discuss a sound financial plan for the pool; to select tentative plans and a contract; to select a permanent officer for the pool, other than Madison; and to provide for an increased number of directors in the event of expansion of pool membership.

Mr. Singler has pledged the cooperation of his organization to the strike plan of the Farmer's Holiday association, when that group has enrolled 70 per cent of the farmers of the state. The pool has a large membership in Outagamie county, all of whom are expected to attend the convention. The delegates to the meeting will be quartered in the homes of the pool members in the county during their visit to Appleton.

Student Supports Thomas Candidacy

Roland Beyer Urges Students to Vote for Socialistic Candidate

Roland Beyer, Kaukauna, gave a talk on Norman Thomas for President before the student body of Lawrence college at Wednesday morning convocation in Memorial chapel. It was the second of a series of three talks on the present presidential candidates. The first talk was given Monday for Franklin D. Roosevelt.

"There is no clear cut difference between the Republican and Democratic issues or between their records," Beyer said. "Neither party has shown a progressive movement, although some people believe that the Democratic party has."

Beyer stated that the house of representatives has a Democratic majority and that many of the party voted on the Smoot-Hawley tariff bill. He said that the Socialists were opposed to any tariff because it sets up economic barriers to trade.

"The Socialist party has clearly outlined its stand on the tariff, international affairs, and economic issues," Beyer said. "Both the Republican and Democratic parties have been more or less inactive on these matters."

"We should have an economic system that provides all commodities that the people need at the right time and of the right quality. The present system does not provide for this. It fails to do this because the present capitalistic system is based upon production for private interests instead of for the people."

"Socialism is a way out. It provides for social salvation without possible catastrophe of war or revolution. Each vote cast for Thomas will be a protest to the present economic condition, even though he is not elected."

Council Votes For Widening Of Appleton-st

Project to be Carried Out From College-ave to Lawrence-st

Lights at the curb line or lights in the middle of the walk worried the common council at its meeting Wednesday night, which was devoted almost entirely to traffic and lighting problems on Appleton-st. The council, with Mayor John Goodland, Jr., breaking a tie vote, decided to widen Appleton-st from College-ave to Lawrence-st. The widening of the street will be done in two sections. The first section, from College-ave to the National bank and Peabody-Peabody company buildings, will be widened to the curb for the time being.

Aldermen voting for the widening of S. Appleton-st were C. O. Davis, Harvey Priebe, W. H. Gmeiner, Ernest Fernal, George Brautigam, and Harvey Kitter. Those against, Oren Earle, Wenzel Huseman, R. C. Thompson, and Mike Steinhauer, C. D. Thompson, and Phillip Vogt.

Alderman Thompson questioned the wisdom of widening S. Appleton-st when a section of N. Appleton-st has not been improved. Alderman Vogt felt that the sentiment of property owners on S. Appleton-st should be secured, and Alderman Steinhauer maintained that the council should not proceed with widening unless the property owners assent to the plan.

Hits Arbitrary Stand
He also objected to the city's taking an arbitrary stand in the matter of the placement of the Superior-st light, and told the council that he understood an injunction would be served on the city if it proceeded with the widening of the remainder of the street. Declaring that the council tries to be impartial, Alderman Vogt condemned the attitude of corporations that attempt to block improvement of an entire street because the project does not fit in with their plans.

Speaking of the section of Appleton-st now adjoining the Peabody-Peabody and First National bank properties, he pointed out that the walk belongs to the city, and that while the city was willing to permit the use of the area under the street for storage up to this time, now that widening is essential it is up to the owners concerned to relinquish use of the area and bear the expense of any changes that the widening will necessitate.

Alderman Thompson held that during the present period of economic depression forcing the Peabody-Peabody company to expend $12,000 to change its heating and plumbing system, which will be necessary if the street is widened, is unreasonable. He declared that the company had been reasonable about the widening project, but that under present conditions they should not be asked to assume this large expense.

Lights At Curb
When Alderman W. H. Gmeiner explained that the lights could be placed at the curb temporarily, and moved later without great inconvenience, it was decided to have them installed on the present curb line. The city engineer explained that at the present time one-third of the distance under the sidewalk on the west side and the entire distance on the east side are used for storage space.

A proposed parking ordinance was referred to the ordinance committee and ordered published. The ordinance calls for two hour parking on N. and S. Appleton-st from the Chicago and Northwestern railroad tracks to Lawrence-st, E. and W. Lawrence-st from N. Durkee-st to N. Division-st, N. and S. Oneida-st from Franklin-st to Lawrence-st, and N. Superior-st from the Chicago and Northwestern tracks to College-ave, with the exception of the east side of the street between College-ave and the N. Superior-st in front of the postoffice and Wisconsin Telephone buildings will be marked for five-minute parking. Alderman Steinhauer's suggestion that in the future no parking signs be painted on the streets, to eliminate the expense of no-parking sign posts, was turned over to the street commissioner.

Arterial stop signs will be erected at the northeast and southwest corners of Washington and Superior-sts.

The Chicago and Northwestern railroad company was instructed to move the wigwag signal on Superior-st to the new curb line and to repair the crossing at Appleton, Bates, and Union-sts. Draw-st north to the city limits will be graded for a 28-foot roadway and a 10-foot terrace, and graveled.

Cancel Assessment
The special assessment for the widening of N. Superior-st in front of the postoffice building was cancelled after the reading of a communication from the United States postoffice department which pointed out that the federal government can pay no special assessments of this kind.

Public Traffic in Berlin Paralyzed As Strike Result
Single Link in Vast Transportation System Still Running

ation members. Thus for once the Nazis and Communists found themselves on the same side.

The strike was voted specifically against a wage reduction averaging about one-half cent per hour. The three arrested were two Nazis and one Communist. They were charged with acts of terrorism.

Strike sympathizers severed the overhead trolley contacts on the early suburban streetcar lines in the first morning hours, leaving the trams stranded. Other streetcars were stoned. No injuries were reported.

Strong police squads were guarding bus garages during the day and roving the streets, but they had to handle only a few minor scuffles up to noon.

Try to Tear up Rails
Strike sympathizers attempted to tear up street rails or block traffic with stones and sand at various points in the city. There was much comment on the apparent cooperation for strike purposes between the Communists and Nazis.

Meanwhile tens of thousands of Berliners were tramping the streets in a pouring rain, doing the best they could to get about with the aid of cabs, taxis and bicycles. It was estimated this afternoon that the wildcat strike affected roughly 15,000 employees of the company operating the municipal street, subway and elevated systems.

The crowded suburban trains kept running and in the course of the forenoon a limited street-car service between Berlin and Spandau was reinstated under the protection of police automobile squads. The suburban line between Tegel and Hellensensee was not interrupted.

A month ago the transportation company proposed a wage cut of 20 pfennings (about 5 cents) per hour. When this met resistance a cut of two pfennings was made effective for one month only. This action allegedly led employees to fear a larger cut was coming. This afternoon the Transport Workers' Trade union had not yet sanctioned the strike.

It Is Said—
That merchants and street department workers might have saved themselves a lot of work Wednesday morning if they had called in all the chickens, ducks, pigs, geese, and even depression-hit squirrels from the surrounding country to pick up all the kernels of corn scattered on College-ave. During the decoration of the ornamental lighting posts for the fall festival Tuesday the stalks of corn shed a winter's supply of kernels.

Badger Leaders Plan to Welcome President Hoover

Half-Hour Address Scheduled at University of Wisconsin Fieldhouse

that state that Mr. Hoover had changed his prohibition views.

President Hoover in his speech of acceptance proposed a change in the prohibition laws "to remedy present evils," suggesting that states be allowed to deal with the liquor problem provided the saloon was not allowed to return.

Four Major Speeches
President Hoover will leave Washington today at 4:20 p. m. for a swing through the middle west with major speeches in Springfield, Ill., and St. Louis tomorrow, and Madison, Wis., and St. Paul Saturday.

Under present plans they will start their dash for the coast Saturday night after the St. Paul speech, arriving in Palo Alto about noon Election day.

The chief executive delivered his speech late last night before a California rally at the Carlton hotel here and it was carried by telephone to the coast for broadcasting in celebration of "California day."

An audience estimated by White House aides at 150 persons cheered Mr. Hoover for a minute when he appeared before microphones in the hotel patio. He told them his family had made plans each year to return to Palo Alto, but "new crises and new emergencies" had prevented.

"The improved situation in the country affords me the deep satisfaction of coming home to vote."

"I have never gone so far away, nor remained so long, except during the great war and the presidency, that the morning instinct had not carried me back every year to sink more deeply and more firmly the roots of my being in the fertile soil of California's spiritual and cultural life."

Denies Rumors
Most of the president's address was devoted to campaign issues, chiefly the tariff, but he interposed comment on two "calumnies" which he said were being spread by Democratic agents in California. As to the first, he denied having owned "any interest directly or indirectly in any business outside the boundaries of the United States" since entering public service "15 years ago."

Then he denied "the second defamation . . . that the ranch at Wasco, my interest in which I disposed of two or three years ago, refused to employ white workers."

Turning to the tariff, the chief executive said "there are no states in the Union where prosperity is so dependent upon the maintenance of the protective tariff as in those of the Pacific coast." Mr. Hoover added:

"While our opponent is ignorant of the facts he reveals his hostility to the tariffs on Pacific coast products. . . .

"The fact is, we on the Pacific coast are faced with the necessity to consider increases in the tariff instead of the proposals of the Democratic party to reduce them."

Touching on the election outcome, Mr. Hoover told his listeners: "I do not take seriously the claims of our opponents, however loudly voiced, that California will contribute to the responsibility of interrupting that leadership to the nation which California has itself provided."

The text of the president's telegram saying he has not changed his views on prohibition follows: "I am in receipt of your telegram stating that representations are being made that since my acceptance speech I had changed my position upon prohibition."

"I would be glad if you would reply to any such misrepresentations that my position is unaltered. In that address I set forth my conclusions clearly and unmistakably. That statement is a matter of public record. It is inconceivable that it should be misunderstood."

A daughter was born Tuesday at St. Elizabeth hospital to Mr. and Mrs. Alois Wilz, 416 S. State-st.

Boys Work Conference To be Held Next Week

A boys work conference on work in Appleton among the younger generation will be held at 7:30 next Wednesday night at the Y. M. C. A. It was announced today by George F. Weaver, general secretary of the association, who is making plans for the meeting. State Teachers Unworried Over Retirement Funds

Express Confidence in Action and Policies of Annuity Board

Milwaukee—(AP)—General sessions of the annual convention of the Wisconsin State Teachers' association started here today following a delegate session at which more than 300 members of the association unanimously voted an expression of confidence in the action and policies of the state teachers' annuity and investment board.

William T. Darling, superintendent of Wauwatosa schools and for 11 years a member of the public school retirement board, called for the vote at the assembly last night after he made a lengthy report to the effect that the retirement fund's investments were sound and that there was "no cause for worry."

"Not one of our bonds is in default, nor is any likely to be," Darling said. "There is no cause for teachers to be alarmed as to the value of the insured corporation bonds held by the retirement fund."

The action of the delegates also included approval of an amendment urging that the teachers' retirement fund be kept out of politics. Robert Lohrie, Chippewa Falls, gave a general report on the retirement fund which also declared the investments sound.

At the request of E. G. Lange, delegate from Delano, Wis., who said he has been informed the city of Madison has been favored in real estate loans from the fund, Darling offered to make an investigation and report his findings tomorrow.

Real Estate Loans
Lohrie estimated $8,000,000 is invested in real estate loans, but said he did not believe a disproportionate amount has been distributed in the Madison area.

O. H. Plenzke, Madison, assistant state superintendent of schools, was unanimously elected president of the association to succeed C. J. Brewer, Eau Claire.

H. H. Theisen, Fond du Lac, F. E. Drescher, Fennimore, and Antonio Duran, Ellettsville, were elected vice presidents; Joann Hannan, Milwaukee; C. J. Anderson, Madison, and C. E. Hulten, Marinette, were reelected members of the executive board, and B. E. McCormick, Madison, was reelected executive secretary.

Boyd Bode of Ohio State university, read a paper at today's opening session on "educational forces controlling practices in their schools." Goodwin Watson of Columbia Teachers college, spoke on "The New Responsibilities of economic, Political and International Life."

Registrations indicated about 8,000 teachers will attend the convention which closes Saturday noon.

Probable Showers on Friday Weather Menu

Cloudy skies with probable showers and rising temperatures is the weatherman's forecast for Appleton today and the vicinity for tonight and Friday.

The mercury will drop in the western portions of Wisconsin Friday, he says.

Similar predictions have been forecast over most of the middlewest for the next 24 hours. Winds are shifting to the east and southeast, a good indication that wet weather is on the way.

At 6 o'clock Thursday morning the mercury dropped to 30 degrees above zero, and at noon it registered 45 degrees above.

Little Chute Woman Breaks Arm in Fall

Mrs. John Hoebe, 50, Little Chute, is in St. Elizabeth hospital with injuries received at her home Wednesday evening when she caught her heel on the top step of a porch and plunged to the concrete sidewalk. She fractured her right arm at the shoulder and the wrist. She also received severe bruises.

Old Prospector Conducts Class On Finding Gold

Teaches Enthusiastic Youth How to Segregate Precious Metal

Denver—(AP)—The melody is changed but the words are the same and the refrain still proclaims "tha's gold in them ther hills."

Thomas A. Weaver, typical veteran prospector, white-headed and with a shaggy grey beard, who has been humming the tune for well nigh 50 years now, has a chorus of determined youngsters who have caught his enthusiasm. They came back after months in the wilds to tell him of their experiences.

Acting upon the suggestion of Gov. William R. Adams and the state bureau of metal mines, Weaver last August temporarily deserted his work somewhere in the mountains west of Denver and traded a prospector's life for that of a school teacher. The state senate chamber was his class room. His subject was prospecting and gold mining and his students were several hundred persons, including 35 women, who were without work and held to the adage that in the final analysis all wealth comes from the soil.

Modern mining machinery is complicated but, more important to the unemployed, it is also expensive. To Weaver this was no obstacle. The tools he prescribed outside of regular miners' pick and sledge was an old trying pan and a hammer with which to dent the pan. Add an ordinary common garden variety of potato and you're ready to go, provided, of course, you have found gold-bearing dirt.

Explains Process
Weaving his grey beard and talking in a booming voice and with an enthusiasm undiminished by reverses in the mining game, Weaver explained it something like this: "Take the old trying pan and hit it with a hammer to put a dent in it. The crushed ore or pay dirt should be washed with sal. soda, salte pette or nitrate of soda. Then add mercury to amalgamate. Dry the quicksilver from the water. Take a large potato, cut off the end and hollow it out. Set the mercury in the potato over the dent in the drying pan. Cook the potato. The fumes from the quicksilver will be caught and held by the potato and the gold will drop in the dent in the drying pan."

It perhaps is not quite so simple, but that is the idea.

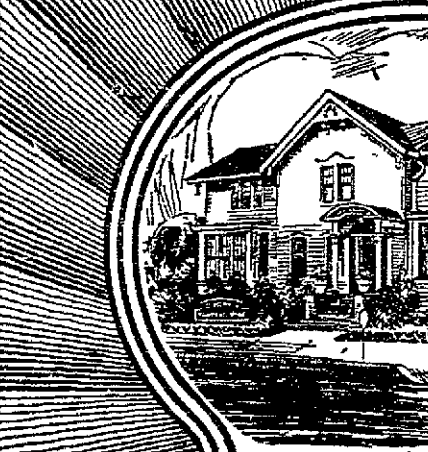

Today Weaver was again in the senate chamber receiving students and their reports. They went into the goldfields and spread into five states in the west, Blackhawk, Central City, Idaho Springs, Floyd Hill, Jenny Lind gulch, Blasted Hopes gulch, Gold Bug, and countless other gold camps saw the activities of Weaver's pupils.

One of them worked virgin grounds on one of the streets of Idaho Springs, Colo., overlooked in the old days when gold was plentiful and easy to recover.

The pupils reported almost without exception they had fared well during the months in the mountains. None of them got rich. Some got nothing. The majority, however, managed to make a living.

Weaver is proud of his pupils. He has infinite faith in a mining revival. He looks for the day when the crossed miner's pick and sledge on the great seal of the state of Colorado will again assume significance. He favors bimetalism, as all miners do, and by tomorrow he probably will be on his way back to one of his many claims.

Five-Day a Week Plan Adopted by Wadham's Company

The Wadham's Oil company in Appleton, as all over the state of Wisconsin, has adopted the five-day a week plan, with no salary cut. As a result 30 men will be used instead of 28 in the three Wadham's stations in the city.

It is estimated that if all the major oil companies in the United States would adopt the five-day a week plan four million additional men could be employed by the oil companies alone.

Al Smith Scores Hoover for Trying To "Scare People"

Sees Solution of Problems in Election of Democratic Nominees

last week. Another part he said was a reply to Mr. Hoover's Madison Square garden address.

"Now, I never had any doubt about the Democratic cause," Smith boomed, "and I never entertained for a moment a doubt about the success of the Democratic ticket, but if perchance some doubt did creep into my mind, it was thoroughly dispelled when I listened to President Hoover at Madison Square garden."

Won't Change Stand
On his arrival about midday Tuesday the president will have an opportunity to note improvements on the Stanford campus. A new entrance gate has been erected and the highway in front of it has been greatly widened.

The Stanford football stadium, where nearly 90,000 people gathered to hear Mr. Hoover accept the Republican nomination for president four years ago, has been reconditioned and enlarged at a cost of $100,000.

The campus, which Mr. Hoover first knew as a student in mining engineering in the nineties, has acquired a sunken baseball field since his last visit. It is larger than most of the major league parks and was completed in 1931 at a cost of $30,000.

There is a new 188-hole golf course, rated among the hardest in the state, a new women's gymnasium and social hall, and a men's swimming pool in which two world's records already have been set.

Five miles to the south of the campus, lies the navy's Sunnyvale air base, now nearing completion, at which the dirigible Akron "died up" on her recent visit to the Pacific coast.

But in spite of the many changes, the president's home on San Juan hill, like the townsfolk, is much the same—except for a few chips knocked off corners here and there by souvenir hunters who evaded the eyes of guards.

Committee to Plan For Farm Institute

A committee of Hortonville business men and farmers from the vicinity of the village will meet there tonight to make tentative plans for a farmers' institute there on Dec. 6 and 7, according to Gustav A. Sell, county agent. An institute also is to be held at Black Creek on Dec. 8 and 9. Mr. Sell will attend a meeting at Black Creek Friday night to make plans for that event.

Condition of Crash Victim Is Improved

The condition of Theodore Finch, 42, 817 Second-st., Menasha, who was injured in an automobile accident at 2 o'clock Sunday morning on W. Finch, who is confined to St. Elizabeth hospital, suffered a fractured jaw, broken leg, severe cuts on the left leg and bruises about the hip and head when his automobile crashed into a tree.

President to Find Few Changes in Home Town

Palo Alto, Calif.—(AP)—Though President Hoover will be greeted without "fuss" by his old friends and neighbors, he will find many changes in the "home town" here when he returns Election day to cast his ballot.

News of the president's contemplated visit confirmed yesterday did not stir the townspeople greatly and they indicated no elaborate preparations for "Neighbor" Hoover's arrival are planned. Some commented, however, he would find things changed.

Since he left his home on the side of Stanford University's San Juan hill four years ago to occupy the White House, the community has been "up and doing."

Old red street cars that rattled between the depot and the university campus are gone. They have been replaced by swift-moving motor buses.

Many Palo Altoans also take pride in the new $700,000 hotel and in the fact it is called "The President" in honor of the town's distinguished citizen. "Neighbor" Hoover's attention may be called to the new $450,000 hospital. And there is the $200,000 postoffice under construction.

On his arrival about midday Tuesday the president will have an opportunity to note improvements on the Stanford campus. A new entrance gate has been erected and the highway in front of it has been greatly widened.

Employment on Increase Here, Report Shows

Decrease, However, of 5 Per Cent Seen in Weekly Pay Rolls

Thirteen Wisconsin cities reported an increase in employment and pay rolls during the month ending Sept. 15, five others reported increased employment but decreased pay rolls, six revealed decreased employment but increased payrolls, and seven had decreased employment and decreased pay rolls, a report of the Wisconsin Industrial commission reveals.

Appleton was one of the cities showing increased employment and decreased pay rolls. The others were Beloit, Eau Claire, Rhinelander and Watertown. Cities reporting increased employment and pay rolls were Ashland, Beaver Dam, Chippewa Falls, DePere, Fond du Lac, LaCrosse, Marinette, Milwaukee, Neenah-Menasha, Oshkosh, Racine, Waukesha, West Bend.

The commission's record of Appleton shows 34 plants reporting an increase of 4.2 per cent in employment, but a decrease of 5 per cent in weekly pay rolls. There were 2,181 persons employed here on Sept. 15 as compared with 2,094 on Aug. 15. The aggregate weekly pay roll was $32,154 on Sept. 15 as compared with $32,305 on Aug. 15.

For the state of Wisconsin the report showed a 2.8 per cent increase in employment and 5.8 per cent increase in pay rolls.

The employment aggregate here is considered 82 per cent of normal. In August it was 80 per cent and in July 80.4 per cent. In September, 1931, it was 85.8 per cent and in September, 1930, 83.4.

The aggregate weekly pay roll for September of this year was $32.2 per cent of normal, compared to 53.5 per cent in August, 49.1 per cent in July, 64.8 per cent in September, 1931, and 90.1 per cent in September, 1930.

Turkey and Geese Crop is Lighter

Production Only About 50 Per Cent as Much as Last Year

BY W. F. WINSEY

As compared with the past two years, the turkey and goose crops are light this fall in northeastern Wisconsin. This fall these crops show a reduction of more than 50 per cent. The low yields are due to large proportion of the eggs being infertile last spring and severe losses after the poult and goslings were hatched.

In proportion to the entire number the farm women who are raising turkeys and geese is insignificant. One reason for the limited number of women raising turkeys is that turkeys cannot be successfully raised on farms with chickens and most women prefer chickens for egg production. The same excuse cannot be given for the small number of women raising geese as geese, do well, chickens or no chickens.

The number of turkeys raised in this vicinity the past years and this year, some by professionals are as follows: Riley and Hanson, Shawano, 2,500 turkeys yearly, none at all the past year; a Door-co woman 1,000 turkeys raised two years ago and 500 the past year; a town of Scott, Brown-co, turkey raiser, 900 turkeys last, none at all the past year; a town of Ashwaubenon, Brown-co woman, 500 turkeys last year, 250 the past year; a town of Seymour, Outagamie-co woman, 300 turkeys last year, 200 this year; a town of Freedom, Outagamie-co woman, 500 turkeys last year, 15 this year; an Oconto-co woman, 400 turkeys past years, none at all this year. These records could be multiplied to show that the turkey crop in this section of the state is not over 50 per cent of the usual yearly average.

The latest Chicago market quotations on turkeys and hens, however, are 17 cents, young toms, 15 cents, and old toms, 10 cents. No. 2, 7 cents and geese, 10 cents.

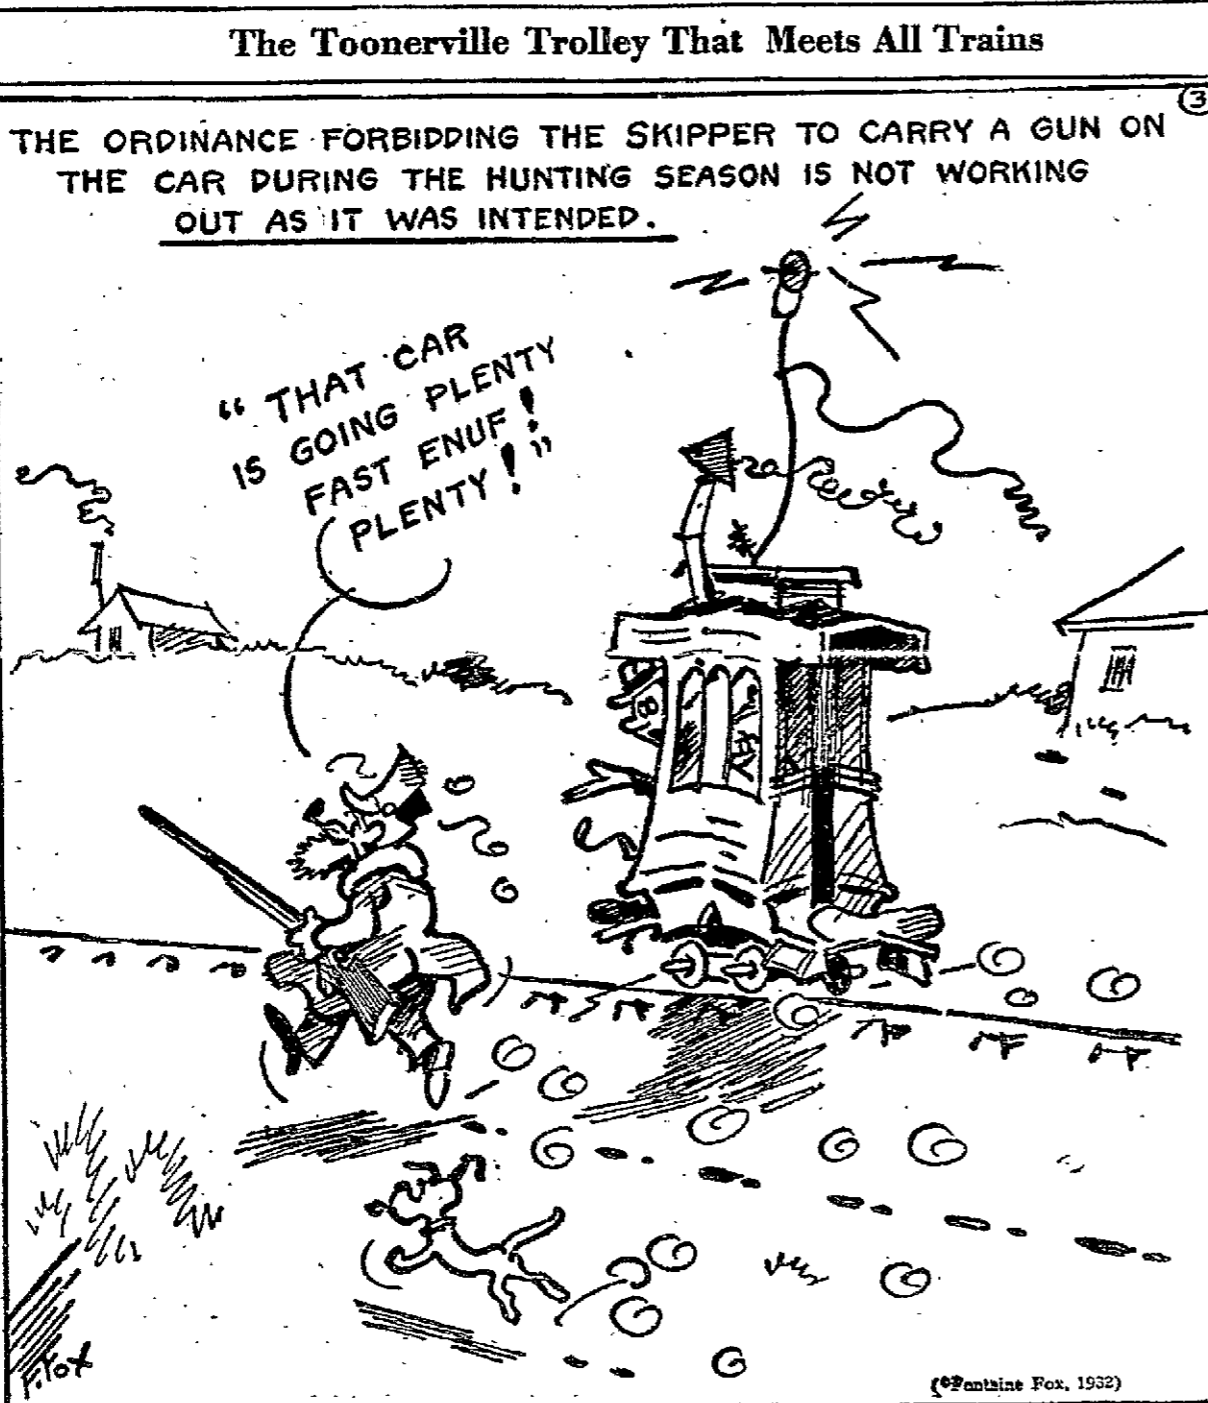

As a prelude to those low prices, the trade reported that 8,584 turkey-raising farmers of Wisconsin produced 180,000 turkeys the last year, and the crop in the United States is the largest ever raised, 18,000,000 turkeys.

A very few of those 8,584 successful turkey raising farmers live in northeastern Wisconsin. Perhaps they live north, east, south, or west of northeastern Wisconsin.

PAIN DEADENED CHEST COLDS LOOSENED WITHOUT DRUGS

Get quick relief from neuralgia pain, sciatica pain, neuritis pain, rheumatic pain, same back, stiff neck, headache, strains and chest colds by rubbing plenty of Baume Benguet (pronounced Ben-Gay) on the spot. It doesn't blister or stain. Rub it in till it sinks down and soothes the pain or breaks up the chest cold without drugs, for any drug that is powerful enough to "desensitize" pain or loosen a chest cold may not be good for you.

But beware of imitations. Ask your druggist for Baume Benguet by name (called "Ben-Gay" in English). There are many analgesic baumes, mostly cheap imitations of Ben-Gay made out of synthetic drugs. That is why they are cheap. That is also why they are ineffective. Insist on Ben-Gay and you will get real results.

Toll From Heart Disease Growing In Badger State

Rapid Increase Blamed in Part to American Ways of Living

Madison—Heart disease has been taking an increasing toll in Wisconsin. The death rate from heart diseases in the State in 1930, when the first complete reports of deaths were collected, was 95 out of every 100,000 living in Wisconsin at that time. For 1931 this rate had increased to 202.8 per cent. This shows that the death rate from heart disease has increased more than 200 per cent in the last 24 years. The highest rate in the State was obtained in 1929 when 6,200 people died of heart disease and the rate that year reached 213.2 per cent.

The relative reports of heart disease as the cause of death shows that for each 100,000 persons living in Wisconsin in 1931, while 6,024 died of heart disease in some form, 3,485 died of cancer and 2,562 of cerebral hemorrhage.

The rapid increase in deaths from heart disease is due, in part, to the American ways of living, according to the bulletin issued by the Educational Committee of the State Medical Society today.

"Everybody is in too much of a hurry," declares the bulletin, "everybody is rushing as if they had only two minutes to get to the place."

"Habits of right living which our children practice so enthusiastically are gradually but surely being forced on the older members of the family. The result, very naturally, is a marked improvement in health. A few concrete examples of what we mean by 'habits of right living' may be mentioned. The care of the teeth, sleeping with the windows open, moderation in eating, exercise in the open air, an annual physical examination, and many other practices of a similar nature may be mentioned as valuable aids in safeguarding health.

Good Health Stressed

"There never has been a time in the history of our country when people generally have had so many exposures to good health as at present. Newspapers and magazines which used to be filled with patent medicine advertising now contain vast quantities of practical advice on how to keep well. The vicious circle sickness causing poverty and poverty as a contributing cause of illness is gradually but surely being broken. The great advances in surgery during the last twenty years have also been an important factor in prolonging the lives of many thousands of persons who otherwise would have died.

"Another element relating to lack of health education must also be mentioned. Health agencies, both official and voluntary, in the past have devoted most of their time and energy to the prevention and control of communicable diseases, such as typhoid fever, diphtheria and tuberculosis, and very little attention was given to heart disease, cancer or diabetes. It is not strange, therefore, that little progress has been made in the prevention or treatment of these diseases.

"It requires no proof that more people are now living to be fifty years of age or older than ever before. This is recognized by everyone who has made a study of deaths by age groups. The increased mortality from heart disease, therefore, is not so alarming as it appears. In extreme old age in actual reduction in the death rate from heart disease can only mean a corresponding increase in the rate from other causes of death characteristic of advanced years. We all must die but it is our aim to postpone our going as long as possible."

THE PILGRIM'S FIRST WINTER

"Nature in the Raw"—as portrayed by Herbert Reese, celebrated painter... inspired by the bitter hardships endured by America's first settlers in their conflict with raw, wild nature (1620). "Nature in the Raw is Seldom Mild"—and raw tobaccos have no place in cigarettes.

No raw tobaccos in Luckies —that's why they're so mild

WE buy the finest, the very finest tobaccos in all the world—but that does not explain why folks everywhere regard Lucky Strike as the mildest cigarette. The fact is, we never overlook the truth that "Nature in the Raw is Seldom Mild"—so these fine tobaccos, after proper aging and mellowing, are then given the benefit of that Lucky Strike purifying process, described by the words—"It's toasted". That's why folks in every city, town and hamlet say that Luckies are such mild cigarettes.

THE WHY OF KOHLER

In 1928 Mr. Kohler was elected governor after the state for six years under Blaine and two under Zimmerman had floundered around like a scow that had broken its hawser in a storm.

Mr. Kohler found a condition that was anything but encouraging. It was the natural condition we must all expect when men in office examine nearly every public question with a test single to determining whether it will help them stay on their jobs or not.

Mr. Kohler was new in politics. That year for the first time he had ventured out into the place where little falls upon a man's head but the hot lava of abuse.

During his administration he devoted his time unflinchingly to the public service. He didn't act with his eye on the next election. Perhaps that is why he was defeated in 1930. Anyway he went out of office with a solemn conviction that he had served the people truly and honestly. That they did not appreciate it was no fault of his.

He was succeeded by a young man of ability but with more enthusiasm than judgment. Governor LaFollette forgot the old definition of true progress—"go slowly." He attempted so many different things and such radical changes that, had he succeeded, he would have thrown the machinery of the state all out of kilter even during days of prosperity. The people's desire for a return of Mr. Kohler is shown by the heavy majority given him in the primary.

But the Progressives are not content. They would, if possible, elect Mr. Schmiedeman. They are seeking and saying very many fine things about the Democratic nominee.

Let us stop and put a pin right there. Supposing Governor LaFollette had been renominated and was therefore opposing Mr. Schmiedeman, and the election was close, can one not see the air blue with language exposing the "reactionary" Schmiedeman, the enemy of the worker, the enemy of the farmer, the enemy of the little businessman, and to make it unanimous, the enemy of big business itself?

The voter should carry that idea in mind in choosing a governor because he knows that it is a fair statement of about what could be expected to happen. Our politics in Wisconsin are altogether too personal.

From the statements now being circulated a stranger in the state might think that Mr. Kohler was a compatriot of Fall and Daugherty or that he was found with part of Ivar Krueger's swag. Certainly no one would suspect that in the last 40 years he had built up one of the finest industries in Wisconsin and based it upon the finest principles of the employer-employee relationship that can obtain in any industry, that he had been a sound and trustworthy governor in the past.

Wisconsin is not in the best of shape. A great many states are in worse shape but that doesn't help us unless upon the theory that misery likes company. The finances of the state are getting wobbly. Between the two candidates for governor there is not much chance for argument. A good many of those who vote for Schmiedeman will do so because they have it in for somebody.

But every voter who hasn't an axe to grind and will let his memory return him to Mr. Kohler's former administration, sane and just to all elements of the population alike, will appreciate how deserving is his cause.

POLITICAL RADIO CONTRACTS

Some comment is heard regarding political partisanship of the radio. There has been talk that the radio chains were either pro-Hoover or pro-Roosevelt, with favoritism being shown one side or the other. The real truth may be found in the radio contracts of the political parties.

The Republican contract with the broadcasting companies provides that President Hoover may speak as long as he pleases and the national committee is then billed for the actual time used. This arrangement has been made despite a ruling of the Federal Radio Commission that the President must never be cut off in his radio addresses—a situation that could be utilized to Republican advantage had they a mind to make use of it.

The Democrats buy so much space on the air, their allotted time being specified in the contract, which is the reason why

Democratic speakers appear anxious to curb any prolonged applause as an encoachment upon their speaking time.

There is no skulduggery about it. Those who made the Republican contract may have been a little smarter—or less thrifty perhaps—than those who negotiated for the Democrats.

JAPANESE PROPAGANDA

In defense of her Far Eastern policies, is Japan now launching another counter attack, with Secretary Stimson the objective of her assault?

News comes from Shanghai that Mr. Stimson is about to resign because of "overplaying his hand" in regard to the new Manchurian regime of Manchukuo.

To be sure, this statement does not emanate from Japanese official sources but nevertheless it has especial significance in that the prediction is made by Mr. K. K. Kawakami, who is not only the best known Washington correspondent of a leading Japanese newspaper but has enjoyed for many years an enviable reputation for discretion and reliability. He makes this surprising statement upon his return to Shanghai after an extensive journey through Manchuria.

Coming from such a source and given the wide publicity it is sure to have throughout the Orient, the statement is bound to create a misleading impression of American opinion and of the administration's policy.

Mr. Kawakami's assertion is regarded in Washington official quarters as "too ridiculous to warrant comment." Though there has been in this country some adverse criticism of Secretary Stimson's leading role in defense of the Nine Power treaty and the Kellogg-Briand pact as one bound to arouse Japanese hostility, he unquestionably has had the support of President Hoover. In fact the President, in his speech of acceptance, definitely assumed personal credit for enunciating the new international doctrine of "non-recognition" as one means of implementing these peace treaties—a doctrine that is now being specifically applied to the Japanese experiment in Manchuria.

It is difficult to see how any intelligent Japanese so well informed as is Mr. Kawakami on American affairs could pretend that Secretary Stimson's work is at variance with the administration's policy, unless there is back of it deliberate Japanese propaganda of malicious intent.

Mr. Kawakami's statement will receive in this country the credence it deserves but it will certainly give the impression throughout the East that Mr. Stimson's anti-Japanese policy is contrary to American public opinion and due for an overhauling.

WHY SHOULD WE FEAR ANYTHING?

The National City Bank of New York leads the financial institutions of the country in size.

Since its assets sometimes pass 2 billions it supports various departments of research, keeping close tab upon financial, industrial and political conditions in the country in the matter of their relations to its enormous investments.

The outcome of the approaching election does not bother the National City because it is satisfied that with either Hoover or Roosevelt the country is not going to the canines.

In its recently issued monthly circular it reminds its clientele that our campaigns are conducted "in a manner somewhat disturbing" which often tends to obscure the really important fact that they have invariably turned out happily and all tendencies to disturbance have immediately subsided once the election is over.

The National City considers one of the most notable aspects of the election, and one of the most reassuring, the fact that both candidates and party platforms endorse "principles of economy and sound money."

In its review of the campaign it points out that while "economy panaceas of unsound character have been offered in multitudes," they have found no foothold, and it takes reassurance from the fact that "the sentiment of the country is for economy and for a balanced budget that will keep the public credit above reproach."

When the National City, engaged in a business that has delicate sensibilities and often influenced by trivial things, with its vast investments to conserve, looks on the outcome of the election with quiet serenity, why should anyone form the mistaken conclusion that the victory of either candidate may spell a dark future or disaster for the country?

So There Was No Skating on Washington Street

The W. K. street department swished off Washington street between the city dump and Superior street early yesterday morning with the sprinkling apparatus, and left the street glistening with a covering of water. About that time the air was so drenched chilly that a freeze was imminent. A little later, it began to snow. Then, just as we were about to get the skates out and have a time, the sun appeared.

Personally, We'd Still Be in the Same Shape

Post-Mortem:
I bet I have the oldest silver quarter in Appleton dated 1932. From its appearance it was never in use all these years. Maybe it is some of the hoarded money, just getting back into circulation from after the Civil War, when the cheap paper money was made that Herbie Hoover spoke about in his speech at New York.

Just think if we went off the gold standard and people hid their money for 75 years; things "might have been worse."

Yours,

Notice that Don Marquis is improving slightly. He was stricken blind last Thursday, from overwork and fatigue. Here's hoping he straightens out all right. Remember that swell column he used to write "The Lantern"? He's been making a more honest living writing stories, books and plays since he gave up this business.

New simile—as quiet as Texas Jack Garner before the election.

Or, maybe, "as muffled."

Kohler has linked Mayor Schmiedeman to the "Madison Ring." Ah, Walter, but it isn't a ring. It's a square and it runs all the way around the old grounds and you can only drive one direction on it (and get away with it, ask that cop who told us once) and the traffic all goes like hell and you always forget where to turn off it to get someplace else. It took us four years to get used to the square, Walter, and we're sure that the vicious circle you're talking about. Only, it's a square.

GRANDPA'S JOB

Making up tales for the children to hear. Just the right job for an old fellow queer. Just the right job for an old-fashioned chap. Just the right job for a grandpa like me. Telling them stories of sailors at sea. Pirates and Indians, wildcats and bears. While father and mother are resting upstairs.

Just an old grandpa, as worn as a shoe. Little in life there is left I can do. This task too heavy and that one's too long. My fingers are trembling, my legs are not strong.

Still there's a need for us old fellows queer. Making up tales for the children to hear. Making up tales for the children to hear. Maybe they'll miss them when I disappear. Maybe they'll wish for me. Maybe they will find there's a place only granddads can fill. Maybe they'll learn, as I learned long ago, There are some things only granddads know.

Looking Backward

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Thursday, Nov. 7, 1907

Creamery butter had dropped from 33 1-2 cents a pound about two weeks before to 24 cents a pound that day, according to the Elgin market.

Predictions were being made freely that prohibition of the liquor traffic would become a national political issue within a few years, or else it would have been eliminated by state legislation rendering the manufacture and sale of liquor impossible.

Homer Lemerond had returned to his home in Appleton after spending the past few days with his brother at Great Bay.

John Branchford and Clyde Gaffney had returned from North Dakota where they worked during the wheat harvesting season.

Because of the fact that the Appleton Knitting company had been merged with another large concern and was to drop its present name, the Lake Superior Knitting Works company had decided to change its name to the Appleton Knitting Works.

The members of the Merry Sixteen club were entertained the previous evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Grassburger.

Farmers in the Danube district of Yugoslavia have just been ordered to carry crop insurance against hail.

A shoe manufacturer of Czechoslovakia has opened 40 retail stores in Poland.

Two ewes owned by Maxwell Hamilton of Newry, Ireland, gave birth to triplets twice this year.

On a ship which recently left Peterhead, Scotland, for Leningrad, Russia, were 14,700 barrels of herrings.

THE FORGOTTEN MAN, HIMSELF

Personal Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician and Author

A LITTLE LESSON IN BACTERIOLOGY

Popular health education helps people who know they are ignorant of anatomy, physiology, pathology and hygiene. It makes little impression on wisecracks who are content with their intuition.

A wisecracker suffered a puncture of the palm from a splinter of wood. He neglected to apply tincture of iodine as a first aid disinfectant, and he failed to protect the wound, after extraction of the splinter, with a dressing to exclude further infection, such as a covering of adhesive plaster, or a pad of sterile gauze, and a bandage, or a coating of flexible collodion. The puncture became infected and festered or suppurated. Then the wisecracker began to apply antiseptics, trying one after another, while the hand became sorer and sorer. Finally he consulted a physician. The doctor, instead of suggesting that the beggar call at the office or consult a surgeon, or something, advised large hot moist dressings over night. This sounded too homely, and the wisecracker did not follow the advice. Somebody else came along and asked if he had tried surgical soap.

He had tried half a dozen other presumably potent germ destroyers but not germ killing soap. . . . to make a sad story short the hand finally required deep incision and drainage.

Any good toilet or laundry soap is an effective antiseptic. Indeed, it is doubtful whether you can apply a more effective antiseptic dressing to any kind of infected wound or sore than many folds of crumpled yards of gauze (cheese-cloth) kept moist or wet constantly with plain soapsuds.

Give me a vial of tincture of iodine, a pound of boracic acid, and a cake of any good soap, and I'll need no other "remedies" except the successful treatment of any ordinary surface or internal infection.

Until some one finds the germicide or antiseptic that will appreciably discourage or retard the multiplication of germs in the tissues without injuring the tissues, I am content to gargle, spray or otherwise wash the surface with a simple solution of a teaspoonful of boracic acid in the pint of water. This is sufficiently antiseptic to render the discharges harmless to other persons. That's the altruistic purpose served by such medicine. Of course it can have no influence on the activities of the germs that have invaded the tissues.

If anything were to be gained by combating germs—in the mouth, throat or nose (anything other than rendering the secretions or discharges less infective to other persons) it would be wise to make frequent, if not habitual use of gargles, sprays or germs that cause the tonsillitis, rhinitis or sinusitis. The germs that are causing the trouble have invaded the tissues and you can't reach them there with any such antiseptic.

But continue your antiseptic gargle or spray by all means. Chances are some such precaution is necessary for the protection of the public against your germ-laden cough, sneeze or conversational spray. You may instinctively screen your cough or sneeze with hand or handkerchief, but your conversational spray is even a greater menace to the unwary because people have not yet learned to avoid that.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Eggshell As Food

Reading how some scientists are puzzled over the way a hen produces eggshell, I am prompted to ask whether the eating of eggshell would not make good the calcium deficiency you doctors say our refined diet has. Eggshell is almost pure calcium carbonate. I have been drying eggshell thoroughly, powdering finely and sprinkling the powdered shell on my chops and in my chow. How about it, Doctor? (Gus.)

Answer—Egg-shell, oyster-shell, bone and chalk are all practically the same thing, calcium carbonate. Probably the body can utilize this calcium if there is a shortage of calcium (lime) in the food.

Syphilis

Eight years ago I had syphilis. Physician gave me just one shot of 606, and also used some kind of rays to burn off lesions. After he said I was well he took a blood test and later he reported I was all right. So far as I am aware I am all right. But I'm worried. If I should marry would my children be likely to be defective in any way? (L. K.)

Answer—The diagnosis is questionable if the cure was so quickly effected. Of the cure is questionable if the diagnosis was correct. If either parent has syphilis when the child is conceived the child is likely to be syphilitic at birth. You should not contemplate marriage until a competent and reputable physician has certified that you are free from syphilis.

Have a Seed

I passed the information about flaxseeds along to my mother. She was a slave to physics; she had started with one pill every night, and had increased to two, three and four pills every night, with enemas in between. She has been taking flaxseeds for several months now and never has to resort to physics any more. We all thank you (M. M.)

Answer—We invite every victim of the physic habit to have a seed. Or send a stamped envelope and a dime (not stamps) for booklet "The Constipation Habit."

The Tynmites

By Hal Cochran

THE farmer said, "I surely hope that with my real long piece of rope your flying horse can tow my car right up to my big farm."

"When we get there I'll let you play around the place the livelong day. There's nothing there to hurt you, so there's no cause for alarm," said Scooty. "We will do the best we can and, if with luck we're blessed, we soon will reach our destination. Come, let's hurry now."

"The rope must be tied very tight so everything will be all right. The horse is quite a patient beast. It will not start a row."

They tied the rope as best they could and Scooty shouted, "That looks good. Now let's climb in the farmer's car and shout a loud goodbye."

However, if the horse should balk because we're heavy, we will walk. I'll run along beside it, giving it a friendly slap."

So, in they climbed and then the beast said, "Even though the load's increased, I'll try to pull you over the ground to prove that I am strong."

"Just hang on tight and off we go. At first the pace will be slow, but soon I'll travel rapidly, unless my guess is wrong."

The horse then took a step or two and Scooty cried, "Hurray for you! You're doing great! Just keep it up. Gee, this is heaps of fun."

"Then he kept quiet for a while, but shortly added, with a smile, "Aw, shucks, the pace is much too slow. Why don't you start to run?"

Perhaps this made the horse real mad, 'cause something happened that seemed sad. Instead of run-

A Bystander

BY HERBERT PLUMMER

Washington—One of the most alert participants in this presidential campaign, though he keeps almost entirely in the background and makes no speeches, is the slender, dark complexioned man whose job it is to keep President Hoover fit physically.

His name is Capt. Joel T. Boone, the White House physician.

"Cap'n Boone," as he is known around the White House, lost no time in bandaging the President's hand after the reception to the judiciary on the eve of Mr. Hoover's departure for Cleveland to make a speech.

"Thousands shaking the President's hand caused it to swell. Someone wearing a heavy ring inflicted a cut. It was up to Dr. Boone to see that the presidential hand was in shape before the Cleveland trip. There would be more handshaking out there."

He Goes With Hoover

Mr. Hoover didn't even forego his daily "medicine ball" session, the following morning, despite his bruise. The "Cap'n" can be a "taskmaster" when he chooses, and the President obeys.

The doctor always is a part of the presidential entourage. Seldom is he far removed from the President.

Boone is a navy doctor. It is a matter of pride to him and to his branch of the service that the navy has provided most of the presidential physicians. Since the days of "T. R." in the White House the navy has been entrusted the greater part of the time with caring for the health of the chief executive.

Little Work for Him

As President Hoover's physician, his work has been rather light. The President has enjoyed unusually good health during his tenure of the White House. At present he is said to be in excellent physical condition, capable of standing any strain his campaign demands of him.

Actually, not since Woodrow Wilson has a President been ill enough to require the constant attention of a physician. Harding, though, he died in bed, did so suddenly. Goodies told his physician when he entered the White House: "We are never ill!" and proved it.

But "Cap'n Boone" keeps a sharp lookout nevertheless.

Seen And Heard In New York

BY WILLIAM GAINES

New York—Some persons have a way of getting into strange businesses. One fellow on Fifth avenue deals in "butterflies—dead" ones, either for ornamentation or the collections of bugology students.

His shop is attractive—that is, to one who doesn't find a bit depressing the sight of beautiful and rare butterflies crucified to make wall panels and vanity case covers. There is a funeral hush about the place, and one seldom sees a customer in there.

The proprietor himself has something of the aspect of an old-fashioned funeral parlor director. He is a slim, black haired, bespectacled fellow. But he is wispish toward anyone who comes into his store for any purpose other than to pay his prices for his wares.

He doesn't enjoy being questioned about his business at all. People who are doubtful purchasers are always writing in to ask him something about his butterflies. He says nothing annoys him much more than to have to answer these "foolish" letters.

There are a limited number of customers who pay good prices for unusual specimens. Whatever the times may be, he doesn't want to bother with strangers in the hope that new trade may develop.

In the rear of the shop is a dark space where you may see him, through the door, bent over his absorbing work of mounting butterflies. A single desk lamp lights his sharp, pale features. You stand there, waiting, until at last he is aware of your presence. The pale, bothered face turns toward you with the challenge: "Why do you intrude? Do you mean business? You know I'm strictly a dealer in dead butterflies."

Alias Fred Allen.

Fred Allen, a comedian who is making his debut on the air, really is Fred Sullivan from Cambridge, Mass.

He did his first acting in a church pageant, at the age of 10, cast as one of the three wise men. Some years later, working in a hardware store in Boston, he got a chance to go in an act for a single appearance.

His wages were $5.

He tackled the profession as a juggler, and had himself billed as "Fred St. James, World's Worst Juggler." Sullivan was St. James until he returned from an Australian invasion, which lasted three years. He had been getting $85 a week over there, and was afraid the old Keith office might check up and refuse him more money for vaudeville bookings in this country.

The best thing to do was to buy his old identity and rely on the skill he could demonstrate as a juggler, he decided, and a new name was in order. He happened to have an agent named Allen. The agent told him—if he couldn't

Victory Seen For Roosevelt In This County

Political Leaders Predict Democratic Candidates Will Win Here

By H. K. Derus

Outagamie-co will give majorities to Franklin D. Roosevelt, Democratic candidate for president; F. Ryan Duffy, Democratic candidate for the United States senate; and Walter J. Kohler, Republican, candidate for governor, political leaders here predict.

Democratic leaders, looking for Roosevelt to poll about 55 per cent of the county's total of approximately 20,000 votes. If this is true, then he would receive about 11,000 votes to 9,000 for Hoover. Four years ago Alfred E. Smith carried the county over President Hoover by 96 votes.

It is not considered likely by the political prophets that either Duffy or Kohler will poll as large a majority as Roosevelt, although they look for both men to come out of the county with comfortable leads.

Analyzing the Democratic vote in the county, the forecasters claim that Appleton will give Hoover a majority over Roosevelt.

Sixth Ward Doubtful

They see Hoover carrying the First, Second and Sixth wards and Roosevelt carrying the Third, Fourth and Fifth wards. Such a large majority for Hoover is expected in the First ward that they say Roosevelt's gains in his three wards probably will not be enough to overcome his loss elsewhere in the city. Some of the forecasters, however, doubt whether Hoover can carry the Sixth ward. If he doesn't, it is probable that he will not carry the city.

Roosevelt's heaviest vote will be polled in the strong Democratic centers in the southeastern section of the county, the city of Kaukauna, villages of Little Chute, Kimberly, and Combined Locks and the towns of Buchanan, Kaukauna and Freedom. It is being predicted that some of these precincts will go as heavy as three to one to five to one Democratic.

Should the voters cast as many state and county ballots for the Democratic candidates as they do for president, a number of Democratic county officers might be elected. However, the Republicans claim that Kohler's strength in the county will keep Republicans in their own column down through the county ticket.

The Democrats are optimistic. It is the first time in decades that they have put a full ticket of candidates in the field and they see an opportunity to win several jobs. Republicans scoff at these claims, pointing to the fact that people of the county are so used to voting the G. O. P. ticket that they won't see anything else when they get to the polls.

Many Parents Visit LaFollette School

A large number of parents attended a "go-to-school" night at LaFollette rural school, town of Ellington, last Friday night. After the class demonstrations the Parent Teacher association elected the following officers: Mrs. Harold Ort, reelected president; Mrs. George Laird, vice president; and Mrs. Edward Ort, secretary and treasurer. Plans for a card party early in November were made. Committees appointed were: entertainment, Miss Armella Sambe, Mrs. Henry Richl and Mrs. Clair Gorman; refreshments, Mrs. George Laird, Mrs. Irvin Klitzke and Mrs. Edward Ort.

Fifteen Women Attend G. O. P. Workers' Meet

Fifteen women attended a meeting of G. O. P. women workers at Castle hall last night. They discussed plans for getting out a large vote next Tuesday and also reviewed plans for instructing voters in the manner of voting. Mrs. S. C. Shannon, city chairman, and Mrs. R. F. McGowan, county chairman, were the speakers.

President Hoover—"Our opponents at no time have proposed a single constructive measure to meet this emergency."

Democrats End Campaign With Three Rallies

With three political rallies Friday night, the Outagamie County Democratic committee will windup its campaign for votes in the county. The rallies will be held at Seymour and Kimberly at 7:30 and at Little Chute at 9 o'clock, according to Stephen D. Balliet, county chairman.

The speakers at the meetings will be James Hughes, DePere, Democratic candidate for congress from the eighth district, Harry F. McAndrews, Kaukauna, Democratic candidate for district attorney, and Tom Dwyer, Green Bay. Mr. Hughes will speak at Seymour at 7:30 with Mr. McAndrews; Mr. Dwyer will speak at the same time at Kimberly; then Mr. Dwyer will go to Little Chute to open the meeting at 9 o'clock. He will be followed at Kimberly by McAndrews and Hughes. The latter two will then windup the meeting at Little Chute.

Arrangements for the rally at Kimberly are being made by the Kimberly Roosevelt-Garner club. George Sauter, president, will preside. All the Democratic candidates for county offices will attend the meetings and be introduced.

Relief Now In Few Minutes From Pains Of Rheumatism

It has now been discovered by thousands of rheumatic sufferers that the pains of that distressing disorder can be eased in as little as a few minutes . . . relief and comfort in almost as little time as it takes to tell!

Doctors advise two tablets of Bayer Aspirin taken with a full glass of water. Then a rest of a few minutes . . . and that is all. Pain is eased quickly—sometimes almost unbelievably.

Relief comes so fast because of the peculiar quick-dissolving property of Genuine Bayer Aspirin. The tablets you take dissolve almost INSTANTLY in your stomach. And thus you get practically instant relief. The fastest, safe relief—it is said.

Remember it is Genuine Bayer Aspirin which claims this quick-dissolving, quick-acting property. So be careful that you get the real article when you buy. See that any box or bottle you purchase is clearly marked "Genuine Bayer Aspirin." And that any tablet you take has the name "Bayer" stamped on it in the form of a cross. Then you will get quick relief.

Remember that when you buy. And remember, too, that Genuine Bayer Aspirin Does Not Harm the Heart.

The play will be given afternoon and evening at the parish hall. Rehearsals are being held nightly, and it is planned to put the tickets on sale Nov. 6 when they can be secured from the cast or members of the sodality.

The story of the play centers around Princess Alma of Delaria, a tiny European kingdom, who is visiting the United States under the wing of her royal mother. Having secretly eloped with a crown prince of her own choosing instead of accepting an archduke of her astute mother's choosing, she sneaks away to spend a quiet honeymoon. She engages June Calahan, a wisecracking Irish stenographer, to understand her while she is gone, in order to hold the press and public at bay, until the arrival of the queen. The crown prince hires Terence Rafferty, a hotel porter, to pinch-hit for him. All goes well until the arrival of Popopolous, president of the Association for the Assassination of Royalty. The stenographer-prince has her hands full with the jilted archduke.

TWO LIVES—ONE DEATH—SCIENCE WINS!

Even in Manner of Forecasts, 1932 Has no Precedent

Both Parties Abandon Usual Pattern for Victory Predictions

BY BYRON PRICE

Washington—The rival election forecasts are about as varied and confusing as ever in 1932, but they do have one distinctive note.

The tenor of the democratic estimates is that democratic victory in the presidential campaign became a foregone conclusion long ago, while the republican outgivings take the general position that although the fight has been a hard one, the tide now has turned decisively toward the republican ticket.

Neither of these two schools of survey and prophecy follows the orthodox habits or previous years. The country has been accustomed to hear pre-election claims based on identical suppositions on both sides and expressed in identical language. Almost without variation the burden of these claims has been: "We started strong, and since then have completely taken the country by storm."

Now neither party is saying exactly that. Both claim victory, but by entirely different routes, and in entirely different words.

Thus up to the last, 1932 continues to write its own precedents. How They View It

Jouett Shouse recently went so far as to say that the defeat of President Hoover was decided on a year ago; that nothing said or done since has changed the situation so far as the net result is concerned.

Alfred E. Smith, six weeks before the election, declared there no longer was any doubt about the outcome. Governor Roosevelt, returning from his last extended campaign trip, told the workers in New York democratic headquarters that the mass of the voters had determined to turn to the democrats "many weeks ago."

On the republican side, Chairman Sanders and his lieutenants have been saying almost daily that conditions in the pivotal states were "improving." After the Maine election they did not conceal their conviction that strong medicine was needed if the republican cause was to win out, and they changed their whole method of campaign to that end.

By common consent, therefore, the debate over the outcome would seem to have simmered down to just this: Have the republicans been able, during the final weeks of the campaign, to reverse the forces which were operating against them during the preceding months?

Spectacular Campaign

It is not within the province of this writer to forecast the answer, but it can be said at least that the situation has produced a far more spectacular campaign finish than anyone foresaw.

No one will deny that the republicans have tried. Instead of making three campaign speeches, as he has planned, President Hoover has delivered scores. Instead of disregarding his democratic opponent as he did four years ago, he has indulged in direct quotation and answer. Win or lose, the republican windup will remain in future years.

The Choice of Those Who Want the Best

Dustless Pocahontas

Those people who want the best and cleanest fuel for their money will buy are selecting our Dustless Pocahontas Coal. Give it a trial, we know you'll be better satisfied.

To give you genuine Dustless Pocahontas, we have a special, complete, thorough process whereby Pocahontas coal is made absolutely Dustless right in our own coal yard. It is the system recognized by engineers and chemists as the best method of spraying coal with a chemical solution. The treatment in no way effects the heating qualities of the coal... all it does is makes it perfectly DUSTLESS.

Marston's "DUSTLESS POCAHONTAS" block contains the purest part of the coal. We suggest that you fire as you ordinarily would with your regular fuel, and place one or more of these coalette blocks on top. The result will be a more uniform and economical fire.

Rushing is Avoided by Time Budget

BY ELSIE PIERCE

So much emphasis has been placed on the slim silhouette, that young girls start strenuous reducing measures long before they should. The majority of these girls jump from high school or business college right into an office where they are confined for eight or nine hours a day, their work is new to them, which adds to their tension. They rush to business via subway or similar vehicle in the morning, rush out again at noon for a sandwich and soda at the corner drug store counter, rush to a store to do some hurried shopping, rush back to the office, home or restaurant for the evening meal, out to the theatre, movies or party, back to their home, out of their clothes and into bed—breathless, tired—sleep a few minutes, extra sleep in the morning which means more rushing to get to the office when the clock strikes nine.

That is a picture of the young business woman as a famous physician gave it at a recent lecture. And we are inclined to believe he painted it with rare accuracy. Don't you agree? This method goes on to say that very soon, the young business woman finds herself with a severe case of "nerves" and without the necessary flesh, not superfluous flesh, mind you, but the necessary flesh that makes for graceful, round curves, for health and for a smooth, unlined face and neck.

Arrange Day Efficiently

The first thing for every business woman to do is to arrange her day as efficiently as she does the duties of her office. Plan definitely all the time you have away from business. So much for rushing so much for parties, so much for sleep (and never skip on the last) and please—so much for beauty. The last means exercise, fresh air and all the other health stimulants as well as the actual time you give to beauty treatments. If you happen to be up very late one night, do plan to get to bed very early the next. This planning and balancing of the time budget will help you to accomplish more in the long run and to "make haste slowly." This is an excellent maxim particularly for women with nerves or without flesh. Remember that relaxation and sleep are the most nourishing flesh foods and health builders; so indulge to your heart's content and your bodies welfare. Nine or ten hours of sleep each night won't give you an overdose of avoirdupois if you are underweight.

As for foods, do eat slowly and instead of a sandwich have a salad or a bowl of cream soup, some cooked vegetables, or foods that really tempt your palate, providing they are rich in nourishing elements.

And don't attempt to rush about or shop or see people during your lunch hour. The only things permitted you, aside from actually eating during this time are a short wait before or after lunch, a short beauty treatment if that helps to pep you up, or a ten minute rest in an easy chair. Two or three times during the day, throw your window wide open and take deep breathing exercises. Many of the large business organizations have ten-minute periods at 10:30 and 3:30 for this purpose. After your day at the office, try to arrange to walk home part of the way. You'll feel the better for it.

There are two bulletins which may interest you—one is my Beauty Schedule which will tell you how to budget your time, the other is my weight gaining leaflet. Please send self-addressed, stamped envelope for these. Address Miss Pierce, care of the Appleton Post-Crescent.

Children Thrive Best In Attractive Schools

BY ANGELO PATRI

School ought to be a lovely place. Children thrive best in beautiful surroundings. This does not mean elegant surroundings. Things can be beautiful without being elegant, or expensive, or loud. Beauty is always best when dressed in simplicity.

A school building ought to be long and low, spread out on the grass like a brooding hen. Vines should dress the walls and old trees shade its grounds. Flowering shrubs should snuggle in the corners where children's feet do not reach them, and tucked in about their roots the spring bulbs should flourish.

The inside of the building is where children live. That means that it should be as beautiful as it can be made without becoming obviously decorated. An empty schoolroom is never lovely, do what you may. It has a chilling vacancy that no color, no line, no design can warm and fill. The children will give the poorest room life and beauty and in return the room should offer them something of the spirit of beauty.

I think there ought to be one good picture in every room. I like that picture to be the one that appeals strongest to the children who use that room. A Corot or a Van Dyke aren't what the beginners like. The high school students will appreciate them. Give the little ones mother pictures, babies, fairies; and color. The older ones the subjects they understand and like. Pictures ought to inspire the children so they must be those that the children can read. They can only read a picture that calls upon their experience and their dreams.

I would not have a lot of children's work planned about a room. It gathers dust. It curls up at the edges. It never stays in place. I'd have an exhibition screen and pin the work on it securely and in good design. I'd change that work frequently, otherwise it has no meaning for the children and it is for them you exhibit it.

Goldfish are usually very uncomfortable in a classroom. If the kindergarten is an expert in goldfish all well and good. But if she does not know about balancing life in a bowl for the fish it is just as well to omit them. The same thing applies to the canaries. Schoolrooms are not a good place for plants and animals, birds and fishes. If we can make them beautiful for the children we are doing well.

First, let us make them clean. The walls, the floor, the ceiling and the woodwork, all ought to be clean as brush and cleansing water can make them. The furniture should be smooth, its fair surface unmarred. The chairs and benches ought to be comfortable. It costs no more to supply a comfortable bench than to buy one that makes a child hunch and huddle and squirm to find a comfortable angle in it.

There must be plenty of light and air. A dark room with poor ventilation is never beautiful. The closets and wardrobes should be sufficient and they should be convenient. When books are higher than children's heads they cannot hang their things on them and they use the floor instead. Whatever makes for cleanliness, order, convenience and comfort will make the classroom a beautiful place.

Long Shots Often Help To Beat Bridge Contract

Although very often, due to the fact that you are not able to read Declarer's hand perfectly, you cannot put up the best defense, you may be able to find an alternative play, which, because you have out-guessed the Declarer, will set him at his contract. If you have your wits about you to make an unusual play, although possibly not good enough to deceive an astute opponent, it may be able to put one over on a less wide-awake and clever Declarer.

The hand below illustrates a very remarkable play, which was a winning one and which would win against probably the majority of opponents. It should not win against a really intelligent Bridge player, however.

North-Dealer. Both sides vulnerable.

♠ K 9 4
♥ 8 7
♦ J 10 7 5 4 3 2

♠ Q J 5 3 2
♥ Q 5
♦ 9 6
♣ A K 10 5

♠ A 7
♥ J 3
♦ K Q 8
♣ 7 6 4 3 2

The Bidding:

North East South West
Pass Pass 4♥ Pass
Pass Pass

A glance at the above hand will show that an Opening trump lead would be a very simple way of defeating the contract. But the club ruff in Dummy could then be stopped. The Opening of the spade Queen, provided it is covered in Dummy and then the third round ruffed by East, would also do the trick. However, West, Mr. Willard S. Karm of New York City, made the natural Opening of the club King, on which Declarer, another leading star, played the Knave. On the bidding, a spade shift certainly did not seem indicated, and Mr. Karm decided his best hope would be to lead a trump and at least stop one club ruff. Of course, he had no way of knowing that Declarer had only two clubs. He thereupon led a low heart, East played the Knave, and the trick was won with South's King. The Queen of clubs was now led for an immediate ruff. West, after a slight hesitation, did not cover, and Declarer saw no reason to ruff what looked like the high club. Of course, the Queen held the trick and a diamond was discarded from Dummy. Declarer now decided to try to get to the board and possibly finesse the second round of hearts, and accordingly led the spade 10. Mr. Karm covered, false-carding with the Queen, the King was played from Dummy, and East took the trick with the Ace. Declarer's worries as to 3 spade losers were, of course, now over. East now had a problem as to what to return. He was uncertain about the spade situation, and though he had hopes of a diamond trick he knew that if that were forthcoming he could not lose it, and he did not need to immediately lay down the diamond King. He therefore quite properly decided to cooperate with his partner and lead his low heart, which might indicate to Declarer that he wanted to stop a third club ruff and was possibly willing to sacrifice his heart trick, as he suspected, as did West, that Declarer had placed the heart Queen in his hand. On the low heart return, South, knowing the astuteness of his opponents, had quite a problem. Evidently, the failure to cover the club Queen should have tipped off the situation to him—in other words, that West wanted the trump left in Dummy so that South, himself, could finesse again a possibly guarded Queen in the West hand. However, he was outwitted in this particular hand and decided to finesse the heart, which he did, and lost the trick. The contract was defeated 1 trick—two spades, a club and a heart being lost. Incidentally, South did not have an absolutely lay-down problem on his hands, as East and West might very well have put up the same defense with the Queen-Knave and one heart in the West hand, and East conceivably might not have covered the Queen of clubs to preserve his tenace holding, seeing that a discard in Dummy would be useless. He should have made the right play, but the defense did give him a difficult guess.

Only Weakling Would Let Children Dictate to Him

BY DOROTHY DIX

Dear Miss Dix—And old maid, 50 years old, married a widower of 60 who has two daughters, married and living in another county. The wife is a splendid woman who does everything to make her husband comfortable and to help him and they would be very happy together except that his daughters have made the man feel that he did very wrong in marrying again and putting somebody in their mother's place. They flood him with letters filled with "Mother" and how they miss her, about her sufferings, her death, her grave, how they can never get over her death and so on and to please them he buys costly floral designs with the word "WIFE" in large letters to place on her grave. He never gives his wife a flower or present of any kind. Everything goes to the cemetery. This makes my friend very unhappy and she says if this goes on she is going back to her old home and leave him to his daughters and his first wife's memories. What do you think she should do?

Answer:

I think she should first have a plain talk with her husband and try to make him see what a folly his daughters have driven him into committing and then she should tell him frankly that she doesn't intend to play second fiddle to a grave and that he can take his choice between a live wife and a dead one.

If he is going to continue to spend all of his money on funeral designs instead of corsage bouquets, and if he is going to make a cult of the memory of his first wife, then I think Mrs. No. 2 would be foolish to waste any more time on him and she will be wise to return to her own old life, which was certainly less aggravating than her new one is.

Of course, the man in this case is a poor, weak, chicken-pecked sap or else he would tell his interfering daughters to mind their own business and let him live his life in peace with a good woman who has taken pity on his loneliness and is probably making him a lot better wife than his first wife did, for there are no such husband-sapier of old maids who get married.

Also, he would tell his daughters not to talk rot about putting another woman in their mother's place. Nobody can ever possibly take another person's place because no two people have the same individuality and nobody loves two people alike or for the same qualities. Nor can we ever duplicate our emotions in life. Certainly no man of 60 can fall in love romantically as he did at 20. No man of 60 has the illusion about women that he had at 20.

Nor does any woman of 50 have the palpitations and thrills and dreams about a man of 60 that she did about her first sweetheart. But middle-aged people have a deep and abiding affection for each other that is a very beautiful and comforting thing to both.

The real villains in this case are the daughters whose jealousy, mentality, is making them wreck their father's life. They, somehow, feel that it is romantic and high-faluting for their father to go on mourning their mother and being miserable about her and keeping her grave decked out in flowers. They don't want him to be happy. They don't want him to forget. And so they keep stirring him up all the time about their mother's death and that is a mean and selfish thing to do.

When children interfere with their middle-aged parents' marriage and prevent them from taking suitable mates, as they often do, they do a very wrong chap takes the same position on that subject that you do. For every man who is in love with a woman wants to do things for her. He wants to give her things. He wants to feel that he is taking care of her, making life a little easier and pleasanter for her.

Why, that is what men work for. That is what they make money for, to spend on women. It is to give women good times and pretty clothes and jewels and luxuries that men toil. There is precious little that their money buys for themselves.

And a girl knows little of masculine psychology who doesn't let a man spend something on her; for the more a man does for a woman the more he loves her. No girl could do anything that would be more calculated to show down a man's interest in her and cool him off than for her to pay her own way when she went with him, unless it was understood beforehand that they were going on a Dutch-treat plan.

Also, men are far more conventional than women. It is expected that the man will pay the bills when he takes a girl out and when he doesn't do this it puts him in the attitude of being a male gold-digger or else a cheap skate and both positions are humiliating and make him ridiculous in the eyes of other men.

It is time for a girl to be independent and not to be a gold-digger, but she has to have enough discretion to know when to open her pocketbook and when to keep it shut.

DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—My husband has been respectable, businesslike and dignified man all of his life until now when at the age of 50 he has completely changed. He neglects the good business he has built up. He is taking all kinds of music lessons and is the laughing stock of the neighborhood, singing at the top of his voice. He has a regular beauty parlor of his own and spends hours trying to beautify himself and grow hair on his bald head and takes all kinds of reducing tablets trying to get a boyish figure. He tries to chum with boys and girls of 16 and brags that he is in younger condition than any boy of 20 or 30. He is always quarreling with his own children and making presents to young girls. My nerves are shattered and I am too ashamed to meet my friends. Is there any cure for him?

MRS. C.

Answer: Oh, yes. A certain cure. Time. He is just going through the age of folly that afflicts a great many other men at his time of life and if you will just be patient he will soon get over it. Go and talk to your doctor about it and he will explain it all to you.

It is just the last flare-up of youth, a last call to the dining car, but while it lasts many men do tragic things, such as imagining they are too young for their wives and that they have fallen in love with flappers and while they are under this delusion they often break up their homes and divorce their wives and marry girls young enough to be their granddaughters and repeat it ever afterward.

Summon what sense of humor you can to understanding the situation and be thankful that it is no worse.

Your Birthday

"SCORPIO"

If November 4th is your birthday, the best hour for you on this date is from 9 a. m. to 10 a. m., from 1 p. m. to 2:15 p. m. and from 5:30 p. m. to 6 p. m. The danger hours are from 11:30 a. m. to 12:45 p. m. and from 8 p. m. to 9 p. m.

Influences this November 4th seem to point to the occurrence of some totally unforeseen happening. It may possibly take the form of particularly good news concerning a relative or very dear friend, or perhaps the unexpected appearance of someone bearing good tidings; possibly it may be a change for the better at the office. At any rate the day should prove a cheerfully happy one. A day for love, romance and happy memories.

The child born on this November 4th will most likely be a great lover of the outdoors. His kind heart and gentle disposition will early be seen in his care and understanding of animals of all kinds. He will be possessed of a better than average mind but his interests will not be directed necessarily towards the acquisition of knowledge from books. The child will be adept at making things with his hands.

If you were born on November 4th you are probably the possessor

A BOOK A DAY

BY BRUCE CATTON

Fads and Quackery in Healing. Medical quackery is a hardy growth. The freakish nostrums and superstitions of the dark ages have pretty well vanished, to be sure, but there are plenty of modern imbecilities to take their place. For the human being craves miracles and since he often fails to understand the real miracles which medical science has accomplished, he goes thirsting after the pseudo-miracles of the fakers; and there are plenty of fakers, these days to take care of him.

Dr. Morris Fishbein, editor of the Journal of the American Medical Association, and author of a daily health column for this newspaper, discusses all of these things in "Fads and Quackery in Healing," a new book which ought to have a place in every home.

It is Dr. Fishbein's delight to expose charlatans, and the modern world surely has provided him with plenty of targets.

He tells here the surprising tale of Abrams and his ocellologist; of the varied cults of faith healing that are to be found in our land; of the true inwardness of chiropractic "science"; of the origin of osteopathy, and its scientific standing; of the dozen-and-one varieties of naturopaths; of the diet faddists, the physical culture fanatics, the anti-vivisectionists, and the rejuvenationists and so on, until your brain spits with astonishment.

Always, of course, he is authoritative. He is, so to speak, the official mouthpiece of medical science; and he is a very readable one and an extremely valuable one.

APPLETON, WISCONSIN, THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 3, 1932

Clair Strain Moved to Fullback on U. W. Eleven

Freshmen Use Illini Plays; Fail to Gain

Spears Prepares His Charges for Deluge of Sucker Passes

MADISON.—(P)—The Wisconsin Badgers approached the climax of their week's preparation for Illinois by taking a long drill on defense.

Illinois plays were used by the freshmen with little or no success against either the first or second teams. The Illini are expected to make wide use of their aerial game in the homecoming tilt so much attention was given to perfecting a defense against passes.

A new backfield combination which promises to give the Badgers more punch on the offense has been evolved by Coach Spears. He moved Clair Strain from the second team to the first as fullback and used Hal Smith, the regular fullback, at quarter. Marvin Peterson was moved to the first team as halfback, teaming with "Mickey" McGuire.

Although Smith, playing as fullback, has a slight advantage over Strain insofar as ability to back up the line on defense is concerned he lacks the running ability of the Colorado youth. Strain usually steps off extra yards whenever he gets past the line.

The placing of Peterson at halfback, although he is only a sophomore, was foreseen because of his brilliant playing on offense in previous games. The Manitowish redhead is one of the most dangerous ball carriers on the squad, coupling speed and drive with an aggressiveness at side-stepping and changing of pace.

Dick Haworth was back at end on the first team for the only change in the line. Schellner was the other wing with Molinaro and Tobias as tackles, Kabat and Facetti at guards and Koenig at center.

O. K. Taxis stayed among the leaders with two wins and one defeat. Wilson had a 200 for the Taxis in the first win, the Stark Hotels took the second game with Stark's 215 and Bushey's 210, but the Taxis came right back with a win in the last game, Kunitz' 191 setting the pace.

Graef Lumber company team moved up a couple more notches in standings by beating the Koch Glasses in three games. Hy Sautz was the big gun in the bombardment blasting 231 for the first game, 203 in the second and 237 in the third for a 674 series, the highest rolled in the city this season.

Barney Welhouse paced the Modern Cleaners to two wins over the Sell Specials. Welhouse had a 212 in the first game and Yelig 209. In the second game Welhouse had a 203.

Punts and Passes

Berkley, Cal. — They call Henry W. Schaldach, California back, "hard luck Hank" and his efforts to get into a game against Southern California prove the name is good. In 1930 he wrenched his knee a few days before the game; last year he fractured a bone in his left wrist early in the season and got back into action a week after the Bears met the Trojans. His third and last chance comes Saturday.

Minneapolis — This seems to be the difference between a substitute and a regular. When Bruin Berg, Minnesota reserve quarterback, went to tackle the dummy yesterday, he sprained an ankle. Jack Manders, regular fullback, took his turn and tore the dummy from its moorings.

Philadelphia — Pennsylvania's preparations for the Pitt game are being conducted in strictest secrecy. Even the students couldn't get in to see their team practice yesterday

BRUSHING UP SPORTS By Laufer

Badger Homecoming to Attract State Grid Fans

MADISON.—(P)—The homecoming struggle between Wisconsin and Illinois here Saturday features gridiron competition between college elevens in Wisconsin this weekend.

The game represents an excellent opportunity for the Badgers to become entrenched in the first division of the conference standings. They have won one, lost one and tied one game thus far.

Illinois, under its master tactician Robert Zuppke, will be a threat in view of its surprise victory over

Stark and Ivan Schustek, ends, the Cardinal will probably win by two or three touchdowns.

Carroll At Ripon

Interest in the Big Four conference race reaches a climax Saturday when Carroll plays host to Ripon at Waukesha in a homecoming game. Both teams are tied for the conference lead and the outcome of this game will determine which is to be the Big Four champion this year. Stopping halfback Holmes appears to be Carroll's biggest job of the day.

While the conference leaders are warring at Waukesha, Beloit celebrates homecoming with Lawrence as its opponent. Both teams are in top shape and prospects are that the game will be won or lost by a small margin. Lawrence has dropped two conference games while Beloit lost the only game it has played.

There are only two conference games on tap in the State Teachers College loop this week but both are attracting much attention in view of the standings of the teams. At Milwaukee Friday, the Milwaukee Feds play host to Whitewater. The Milwaukeeans are leading the conference with three victories and no losses and are heavy favorites to beat Whitewater. Last year Milwaukee defeated Whitewater 8 to 0 to ruin the latter's chances for a championship.

LaCrosse Versus Stout

In the other conference tilt, LaCrosse plays Stout Institute at Menomonie. A win for LaCrosse and a loss for Milwaukee will put the former eleven in undisputed possession of the conference lead inasmuch as it has won two and tied one game and have yet to taste defeat.

Milton college plays Platteville, the conference cellar dwellers, at Platteville tomorrow in a non-conference game while the Superior Teachers play host to the Duluth Teachers from across the Bay tomorrow night. Eau Claire plays a non-conference home game against Northland college Saturday while Stevens Point and St. Norbert engage in another non-conference tilt at DePere. Oshkosh and River Falls—open.

Neenah Seeks Lower Rates From Utility

Council Votes to Present Case Before State Commission

Neenah—Neenah's request for lower light and power rates from the Wisconsin Michigan Power company will be taken directly to the railroad commission at Madison, it was decided at a regular meeting of the common council here Wednesday evening.

In presenting the light committee's recommendation that such action be taken, Alderman R. A. Vandewalker cited an instance in which a Neenah resident owning stores in both Neenah and Menasha paid $3.08 for 57 kilowatt hours in Menasha and $5.51 for 54 kilowatt hours in Neenah.

The matter has been under consideration for some time and a committee of Neenah city officials recently conferred with officials of the power company in an attempt to secure favorable action.

Alderman Loehning contended that although the present power company contract will be in force for a few more years, plans should be started for a municipal light plant in Neenah.

Consider Park Work
Considerable discussion followed a board of public works recommendation that the park board be expanded to begin work on changes in the Riverside park roadway and at the conclusion of the session, the meeting was adjourned until 5 o'clock Thursday afternoon when park officials will be present.

Alderman Martens opposed the plan, but Alderman Harder contended that the present roadway keeps people away from the waterfront. Mayor Sande explained that the plan would increase the waterfront recreation purposes and that by altering the present course of the road as provided for in the park board plan, removal of no trees will be necessary. Alderman Stimp, Rapprager, and Schmidt also participated in the discussion.

Condensation proceedings to secure land necessary for the widening of Reed-st from Division-st to Cecil-st were authorized. The plan provided for changing the road width from 30 to 60 feet, and according to John O'Leary, city attorney, deeds have been secured from all except one of the property owners involved.

To Extend Sewer
A resolution providing for immediate work on the extension of a sanitary sewer on Martin-st westward about 100 feet was approved and a petition for a sidewalk on a portion of the west side of Grant-st from Forest-ave to Lincoln-st, was granted. Other minor improvements projects, including installation of a catch basin on Franklin-ave and Oak-st, for the removal of a tree on S. Park-ave and the removal of two trees on Fourth-st were recommended by the board of public works.

The city engineer's plans for altering the intersection of Grove, Spruce, and Washington-sts was presented and action to secure the necessary plan was authorized. Alderman Vandewalker presented a police department report recommending that Division-st, on which the new high school is located, be made an arterial highway, that 20 miles per hour speed limit signs be placed on Elm and Oak-sts and that 25 miles per hour signs be placed on all highways leading into the city, also was approved by the aldermen.

$100 For Decorations
A $100 appropriation for the municipal Christmas tree and holiday decorations was authorized and Alderman Martens urged that the tree be in place early in December.

The city planning commission's report relative to petitions for changes in the zoning ordinance, recommended that the petitions be refused, and the council agreed. The petitions were filed by Frank Dombek and Otto Schmidt. A report that the C. M. St. P. & F. railroad crossing on High-st is in need of repairs was presented and the city clerk was authorized to communicate with railroad officials.

The monthly report of the poor committee revealed city expenditures of $1,443.30, of which $1,096.50 is charged against the county. The unemployment relief committee reported only $484.53 in direct relief and $4,726.75 in labor. Regular monthly reports also were filed by George Harness and Chris Jensen, justices of the peace, and by the Neenah police department.

A communication from W. H. Nelson and company of Menasha, seeking the contract for the audit of Neenah city finances, was referred to the finance committee.

Neenah—"Other People's Business" was the subject of a talk by John N. Cadby of Milwaukee, executive secretary of the Wisconsin Utilities association, at a joint meeting of the Neenah and Menasha Kiwanis and Rotary clubs in Valley Inn Wednesday noon.

Cadby referred particularly to taxation and the complexity of modern business in government. Tracing the division of labor and the development of trade and business organizations and service clubs, he scored unnecessary complications in governmental affairs.

He touched briefly on the cost of maintaining a number of the commissions and bureaus. Referring to the state tax commission, he said it costs the taxpayers a half million dollars a year for the assurance that they are scientifically taxed.

Scores Regulations
Explaining that legal regulations affect an individual throughout his entire life he said that every time the legislature meets, it is passing laws which further complicate the situation. He pointed to the increases in governmental costs, not only in state government but in municipal and county units.

Changes, he contended, are not necessarily improvements, and when changes become necessary they should be made only after careful study. No matter how the money is spent, the taxpayer foots the bill.

T. M. Gilbert of the Neenah Kiwanis club presided at the meeting and short talks were given by A. W. Wassman of the Menasha Kiwanis club; Carl Gerhardt and E. Jandrey of the Neenah Rotary club, and by George Loeschner of the Menasha Rotary club. C. H. Velte introduced the speaker.

TREAT A COLD IN THE FIRST STAGE

—and You Nip It in the Bud!

A cold ordinarily progresses through three stages: The Dry Stage, the first 24 hours; the Watery Secretion Stage, 1 to 3 days; the Mucous Secretion Stage. Relief in the first stage is far easier than in the latter stages. In fact, it is taking chances to let a cold run beyond 24 hours.

As soon as you catch a cold the wise thing to do is to take Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine. This famous tablet stops a cold quickly because it does the four things necessary. It opens the bowels. It kills the cold germs and fever in the system. It relieves the headache and grippy feeling. It tones the entire system and fortifies against further attack. That is the treatment a cold requires.

Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine is effective, but harmless. Contains no narcotics and produces no bad after-effects. For years it has been the reliance of thousands in all cases of colds and grippes. Every drug store in America sells Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine. Handy, pocket-size box, cellophane-wrapped. Get it today. Resist a substitute.

Lights Turned On at Night in Steeple Clock

Church to Bear Cost of Electricity, Pastor Announces

Kaukauna—Climaxing a controversy that began four years ago, the Rev. A. Garthaus, pastor of Holy Cross Catholic church, announced Wednesday that the clock faces in the steeple of Holy Cross church, which have supplied the time of day to the entire city since 1914, would be lighted from 6 to 11 o'clock every evening.

Lighting of the clock first came to public attention about four years ago while the Rt. Rev. Msgr. P. J. Lochman was pastor of the church. At that time the clock was repaired and equipped with lights with the understanding that the city would accept the cost of the lighting. New glass faces were installed at a cost of nearly $4,000. Dr. W. C. Sullivan, mayor at that time, discovered after the improvement had been completed that it would be impossible for the city to accept the cost of the lighting. Legally, church officials would not accept, as they considered it a municipal undertaking.

With the delay the clock faces remained dark and the city council finally decided not to pay for the lighting. With the decision Kaukauna merchants collected enough money to pay the cost for one year. After the year had terminated, it was believed that the city might accept the cost. The clock faces again were dark when no action was taken, and no movement to furnish the necessary electricity was started.

On Sunday, Sept. 12, after a layoff of more than a year, the clock was lighted by the Rev. Garthaus. The lighting was only temporary, because of an adoration service being conducted at the church.

The Rev. Garthaus finally concluded that although the lighting of the clock was a problem of municipal interest, it was of benefit to the entire public as well as his parish, but that the church could bear the expense with the hope that some day other arrangements could be made. He said that the electricity used would cost about $25 a year and that this amount could be borne by the church.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Razin' to Go

If you feel sour and sick and the world looks pink, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, or laxative candy. You need a gentle, safe, and effective way to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine. For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere moment doesn't get rid of the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Greasy, bloated, and your breath is foul. A thick, bad taste and your head is full. Skin often breaks out in blotches. You have aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to get your liver working again. But don't take for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Retail at 25c. Get at all stores. © 1931 C. M. Co.

All-in... Why

but he doesn't know

He had noticed that his friends looked at him questioningly. Some had even stopped to ask him what was wrong. He realized he had not been feeling up to scratch for some time but had dismissed the subject from his mind. Now he couldn't quiet his misgivings any longer. No denying it. He felt miserable... achy... peevish... all run down. He was grouchy... easily excited... fretful. But why? That's what stumped him. He simply couldn't figure it out.

Yet the cause was simple enough. His body was doped with accumulated poisons. Without knowing it, he had fallen victim to that modern malady which doctors call ASTHENIA.

Without knowing it—that's the disarming thing about ASTHENIA. It drags you down... it slows your mind... it robs you of your joys and pleasures. Yet all the while, you hardly realize you are slipping.

Millions are in just that plight today. They toss and turn at night... wake up with a headache... drag through the day feeling dull, depressed and in constant fear that something serious is wrong with them.

Are you a victim of this health-destraining blight? Don't think because you're "regular" that you're immune. Physicians will tell you that daily elimination not only must be "regular"...

it must be complete. Otherwise poisons gradually accumulate... bred by millions of micro-organisms in the digestive tract. Little by little these poisons seep into the blood stream. Then comes that half-alive feeling... the danger signal of ASTHENIA.

If you feel tired, listless, irritable... if your work weighs you down, decide today to rid yourself of Asthenia and stay rid of it!

Buy a bottle of Pluto Water and take it as directed—one-fifth glass in four-fifths glass of hot water—every morning for 10 mornings. Don't miss a day—for ten days! You'll be amazed how this gentle treatment will change your entire viewpoint... make you see a new world in ten days!

After that—take Pluto Water every Sunday morning regularly, and you'll find that you do everything with new vim and pleasure.

Then you'll understand why for nearly ninety years, from all over the world, people have traveled to French Lick Springs for this famous 10-day Pluto Water treatment... why physicians recommend Pluto Water as a mild, agreeable and effective laxative—non-irritating and non-habit-forming. Economical too... for by actual comparison, Pluto Water is the least expensive laxative you can take.

© PLUTO WATER ends ASTHENIA—the want or loss of strength, debility, diminution of the vital forces—often due to intestinal micro-organisms. Pluto Water—the biggest selling Laxative Mineral Water in the world—is recommended by doctors everywhere. It is bottled and sealed at French Lick Springs Hotel, French Lick, Indiana—America's Greatest Health Resort. In 2 sizes—2c and 4c.

SYNOPSIS: For the second time Nan dreams her missing husband, Jervis Wear, is lying on wet stones. She braves a fierce storm to look for him in the sinister house of Robert Leonard. In a cave almost beneath her feet lies Jervis, weak from exposure, shattered by the knowledge that Rosamund Carew, to whom he was engaged, has given him food and at the same time asked a huge ransom from him.

Chapter 48
FERDINAND RETURNS
THE storm howling about her ears, Nan half walked, half ran was thrown around the house. She tried the latch of the kitchen door. It gave.

Standing in the black silence of the room, she was startled by the strident sound of a telephone bell. It was not in the kitchen; she groped toward the sound. She was in a passageway.

She looked behind her; the kitchen was in a yellow twilight that rapidly grew brighter. She found a door across the passage from the room on which the bell was ringing and slipped through.

Nan saw Robert Leonard turn into the room across the passage, carefully carrying a kerosene lamp. The ringing stopped. Through the crack left between the door and the jamb Nan heard an angry ejaculation, an interchange of words. She had no picture of Rosamund, worried by the storm and the consequent high tide, urgently demanding that Leonard take Jervis up into the cellar.

Leonard said: "Don't be a fool, then 'Anything else?'"

Nan waited for nothing more. She had seen a dim light in the kitchen—came from an open door in a far corner. She slipped back down the passage, down the brick steps into the cellar. In the middle of the cellar was a barrel upon which stood a lighted candle, and in the corner there was a raised lid of a trap door.

The inner conviction that had brought Nan to this cellar did not desert her now. She took her flashlight from her pocket, and without hesitation plunged through the trap door. She was so weary from her battle with the storm that her hand shook a little. She walked rapidly down the slight slope; the path grew steeper, and she came to feel the nearing presence of the sea.

A sharp turn to the right, and Nan saw about five yards away, Jervis lay as she had seen him lie in her dream.

At the same moment Jervis opened his eyes and, pulling on the bar, sat up. He saw, not Rosamund, but one of those dreams which come out of the darkness and the silence. His wrist was bound to the bar with a handkerchief. He fumbled the knot, and Nan went down on her knees and put her hands on his and held them fast.

He said, "Nan!" and she said "Jervis!" and all at once it wasn't a dream any longer.

"Nan!" he said. "Nan!" And Nan put up her face, and he kissed her through the bars with a desperate, straining towards life, and love, and happiness, and all those other everyday things which were in jeopardy.

Then the black swell lifted again and washed right over the sill. Nan caught at the padlock with both hands.

"It's no use," said Jervis—"he's taken the key." Then, quickly, "How did you come here?"

"I don't know," said Nan. "I came. I saw you in a dream." She added after a moment. "There's a storm."

"It's driving the tide. What is it—thunder or wind?"

"Both."

"We must get out of here," said Jervis. "You must get out and get help. You're not shut in?"

"No."

"I can't go," said Nan. "I'm not afraid if you hold me."

That surging lift of the tide came again. They clung together, and felt the bars between them strain with the force of the water. And then with the backward pull something hard whipped about Nan's left ankle and clung there. She pulled herself free of Jervis and stooped down into the water.

And then she felt a chain. Her fingers closed on it, and she came up laughing and crying, and thrust it into the beam of the torch for Jervis to see. Eighteen inches of bright chain, and a small bright key.

"He dropped it with the jump," said Jervis. He turned the key in the lock. The surge of water flung them forward with the gate; they splashed precariously to shallow water, to the dry passage. Nan had lost her torch, but they did not miss it. Their minds were illumined by something brighter than electricity.

It seemed a long time until they reached the trap. Jervis couldn't lift it.

"Have to wait for someone," said he, too happy to care.

"Will anybody come?" asked Nan. (Copyright, 1932, Lippincott)

Consider Steps To Reduce Fire Insurance Rates

New London Seeks Transfer From Seventh Class Into Sixth

(Special to Post-Crescent)
New London — Adoption of an amendment to a new city ordinance defining of the use of the words hawkers and peddlers, and a discussion of the city's reduction in fire insurance rating in case, through the purchase of new fire equipment, New London would be placed in the sixth class rather than the seventh, took place at the council meeting Tuesday night. R. E. Rudder of the Wisconsin Fire Insurance bureau, explained what is expected of a city in the event that the proposed change of rating is made. New London, by a transfer to the sixth class, would have to have a 750 gallon pumper in its fire fighting equipment, and four firemen would have to sleep nightly at the fire station. Pumping heads would have to be lowered, and the city would be expected to meet the requirements of an ordinance on electrical inspection. The use of wooden shingles would be barred in construction or remodeling of residences and other buildings. Nearly all of these requirements already have been met in this city, it was pointed out. Pumps are located along the Wolf river because of a necessity lowered within the past few weeks. This was done because the level of the river has dropped to a point never reached in the past 40 years. Ordinances governing electrical inspection and other minor requirements already have been carried out.

May Pay Pumper Firemen, represented by C. J. Dean, explained that through recent offer of a new pumper from a Minneapolis firm the city has an excellent opportunity of having the insurance premiums lowered to an appreciable degree. Through the change of classification, it was explained, fire insurance rates would be lowered approximately 12 per cent on residences with composition roofing, 9 per cent on those with wooden shingles, and about 3 per cent on this would amount to a reduction in mercantile and factory buildings, annually of between $2,000 and $2,400 to the city, since the annual premiums now amount to about $31,000. On the other hand, it was explained in order to keep the city in the seventh class the city must possess one pumper and one steam engine in first condition. At the present only one of these pieces of equipment is in good condition, and the other could be made so at a cost of about $500. Never before, it was said, has it been possible to buy equipment at such reasonable prices and at such excellent terms. The matter cannot be decided until after the city budget is made out within the next 30 days. At that time it will be known whether the new equipment can be purchased. Amendment Adopted Regarding the amendment to an ordinance governing the operations of so called hawkers and peddlers, it was pointed out that this clause embraced the operations of any firm or corporation giving coupons with a cash value to any customer. Such operations, it was said, placed them in the same class as peddlers. The city's operations of taking photographs was pointed out as an instance of this breach of the terms of the ordinance. Another ordinance was introduced which governed the possession of hens, geese and ducks within the city limits. It was found, however, that this ordinance stated that owners of poultry might be fined or, in case of nonpayment of fines, be subject to imprisonment in the Waupaca county jail, but applied only to wards in Waupaca-co which no attention had been paid to residents of the third ward which is in Outagamie-co. The ordinance was tabled for further consideration. The five-year contract between the city and the United States post office department for the use of that part of the city hall used for department purposes was renewed at an increase of $200 for the use of $1,000 charged for rental. The additional rental was asked because of added improvements which include a new panel of keyless lock boxes, a new relocating device installed on the post office safe, electrical improvements, and the purchase of several new pieces of furniture. F. A. Archibald, police justice, submitted his report for September and October, showing that fines amounting to $30 had been received.

BABY HIPPOPOTAMUSES sometimes are born right in the water, but most generally their birthplace is a swampy island. The mothers carry them about on their backs until they are able to take care of themselves. THE PATH of least resistance in the atmosphere is naturally a very crooked, winding one. It is for this reason that lightning is seen in such a variety of patterns.

Cities and Towns Will Share State Poor Relief Aid

Appropriations Made Possible by Cooperative Action
(Special to Post-Crescent)
New London—Through the merging of nine townships, towns and cities of Waupaca-co, New London will share in the appropriation for poor relief this winter, it was revealed at a meeting of town chairmen, president and mayors at Waupaca Tuesday. Aims and operations of the project were outlined by a representative of the Wisconsin Industrial commission. The city of New London alone could not hope to share in the appropriation obtained by the state through the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, but by merging with other towns and cities, aid will be forthcoming since the stipulation that state aid cannot be granted to cities of less than 10,000 population will thus be met. Those towns of the county which have consented to join the alliance include Clintonville, Iola, Big Falls, Marion, Bear Creek, Mukwa, Waupaca, Lebanon, and New London. The third ward, Outagamie-co, will, for the purposes of operation, be included as a city whole. Other towns and cities of the county because of their ability to care for their own problems will not be included. The sum of $14,500 has been set aside for the use of the county, all expenditures and bills to be met by an executive committee comprising Mayor E. W. Wendlandt, New London, chairman; Julius Spearbraker, Clintonville, secretary; and Mayor E. R. Gmeiner, Waupaca, R. I. Anderson, Iola, and Richard Schoepke, Bear Creek. Officially known as the Waupaca-co group, this committee must employ a director of relief. The hiring of this individual will take place within the next few days, subject to the approval of the Industrial commission. Money appropriated to the project will be deposited in county banks. Need Investigators The director of relief work may or may not be a local man or woman. Under this individual will work one or two investigators whose first duties will be a complete survey of the work to be done in each community. When the work is well underway, these investigations will be made once or twice each month, with reports made to the director of relief. In cities where work of this sort has already begun, in the case that the director appointed was not already familiar with the task, experienced Red Cross workers have been sent to the community to work with the director for a period. Mayor Wendlandt, in explaining the project, stated that each city, town and township would be reimbursed by the state in all relief work at a rate of about 50 per cent, with overhead expenses apportioned in proportion to expenditures. The executive committee will serve without pay, while the pay of the director's salary would depend upon the time expended. Salaries, stated Mr. Wendlandt, amount to $100 and upward, though in some cases two directors are appointed, each working part time. New London, it was said, might have two. A standardization program is laid out, the mayor said, which allows for close attention to diet, particularly of school children. Housing, clothing, every detail pertaining to the good of those to be benefited, is closely watched, with attention paid to the matter of reaching closely the interests of those concerned. The work in the Waupaca-co group became effective, Nov. 1, and actual operations will begin within a few days. Applications for the position of positions of those to direct relief work will be received by the executive board, these to be acted upon by the state industrial commission. The program will extend throughout the winter and probably until July, it was said.

BY CLAUDE A. JAGGER
(Associated Press Financial Editor)
New York—The stock market held tenaciously around the low levels of October today, refusing to decline, but unable to rally. The list eased at times, but stiffened. Net changes were largely fractional and the closing tone was steady. The turnover approximated 900,000 shares.

For a time, leading issues ranged from fractions to more than a point lower, but selling pressure quickly subsided, and the market was distinctly disinclined to continue the decline of late yesterday. If even ignored another drop in the wheat market. It was also oblivious to constructive developments. General Motors failed to reflect the ordering of the dividend, holding about steady.

Gold mining issues were given a whirl, on the basis of the reaction of commodity prices. In recent weeks, Homestake, in which the market is this, surged up nearly 20 points to 152, and closed at 149. McIntyre Porcupine and Alaska Juneau closed about a point higher. Case was an isolated soft spot, dropping 3, then recovering a point. Losses of 3 to 1 1/2 points in such issues as American Telephone, Allied Chemical, Union Pacific, New York Central and Santa Fe were virtually regained. U. S. Steel was about steady. Standards of New Jersey and California closed off fractionally.

News developments of the character to influence the list were meagre. Estimates were being made in brokerage quarters that the weekly freight car loadings report would show the sharpest drop since the week of the Labor day holiday, indicating clearly that the seasonal peak had been passed. Nevertheless, there were indications that the recent gains in general business were being fairly well maintained. William A. Irvin, president of U. S. Steel, said during a plant inspection trip that business activity was showing real improvement. Dun's tabulation indicated that the volume of bank clearings was being well maintained.

Firming of the gold mining issues was presumably a reflection of the renewed slump in commodity prices. As other commodities decline, the value of gold increases. Gold mining stocks had quite a flurry while commodity prices were declining earlier in the year, but had been rather neglected during the recent stiffening of the price level.

Irregular Changes In Prices on Curb

Fluctuations Kept Within Narrow Limits in Day's Transactions

BY JOHN L. COOLEY
(Associated Press Financial Writer)
New York—The price trend was indefinite in today's curb trading and activity again lengthened. Early ranges were of the familiar fractional variety. Yesterday's last hour selling brought out light offerings in the initial dealings, but these were rather readily taken up and prices later mended a little. Fluctuations, if anything, were irregular.

Electric Bond and Share eased to around yesterday's low in the early trading, although the narrow trade saw uncovered a considerable support in the vicinity of 20. American Gas variation from the previous close was slight. Consolidated Gas of Baltimore firmed moderately on a couple of transactions.

Woolworth Ltd., advanced across 11, to new high ground for the year. Initial sales of Singer Manufacturing here at unchanged quotations, but Aluminum of America yielded slightly, making a new low for the move.

Standards of Indiana and Kentucky were fairly firm in the oil section, but Humble reacted a point on its first transaction of the day.

Slight Comeback In Hog Dealings

Prices Advance After Touching Lowest Level In 50 Years

Chicago—Hogs—Having descended to the lowest levels seen here in more than fifty years hogs started a slight comeback early today, though there was no assignable cause that justified a price advance. Local supplies of 18,000 fresh hogs, furnished at this material packers, and shiners were dominant. Small butchers and yards traders, convinced that hogs were well worth current figures, bid strong prices at the outset.

Holders demanded 5-10c higher prices for the good to choice lights and butchers, but the big killers showed more interest in packing hogs. They were willing to pay 5-10c advances for smooth light ones salable around $8.00, but sows weighing from 400 to 450 lbs. at $2.00-2.25, and sows with piglets at $1.75-1.90. News from the fresh pork markets indicated a continued shrinkage of demand.

A miscellaneous scattering of cattle totaling about 5,000 head, was available in the cattle alleys and buyers showed more inclination to take hold than in earlier in the week. Several packers divided a head of native cattle, mostly steers of medium grade, which were forwarded from outside points. Stronger prices were quoted for steers in good flesh and feeder demand fairly but at firm prices.

Market conditions in the sheep sheds were favorable for an extension of the gains scored on the previous session and holders expected more lambs to bring $6.00. Packers were plainly concerned about securing fat stock, having checked in only 2,900 and competition from outsiders was growing. Even the thin lambs attracted buyers representing the killers, putting country feeders on their mettle to obtain replacement stock for native feed lots.

Downward Drift Still Apparent In Grain Trading

Wheat Prices Decline as Result of New Stop Loss Selling

BY JOHN P. BOUGHAN
(Associated Press Market Editor)
Chicago—(P)—With new quantities of stop loss selling orders forced into execution by successive breaks in prices, wheat went lower and lower today.

Bottom levels obtained previous history were reached just before the day ended. Chicago December delivery reaching as low as 41¢ cents a bushel. Downturns of values were in the face of indications of Canadian government-sponsored efforts to sustain the Winnipeg market by so-called "pegging" of prices. About 1,000,000 bushels of Canadian wheat were bought at Winnipeg for export, but no interest was shown in United States wheat seeking an outlet overseas.

Wheat closed nervous, 1-1/2¢ under yesterday's finish. Dec. 42¢-1/2, May 47¢-1/2, corn unchanged to 1-1/2¢ lower. Dec. 24¢-1/2, May 29¢-1/2; oats 1-1/2¢ down and provisions at 10 to 10¢ cents advance.

Accentuating bearish sentiment as to wheat was announcement that European continental port supplies of breadstuffs showed increases, larger quantities especially being stored at Antwerp and Rotterdam. It was also noted that an unlooked for expansion of wheat shipments from Russia had taken place, almost 2,000,000 bushels coming from the Black sea region in the last week. A contributing source of grain price unsettlement was irregularity of securities, late setbacks in the New York stock market yesterday after which wheat trade had ended being particularly emphasized.

Grain Notes

Chicago—(P)—Trade in the La-Salle wheat market remains quiet. The burden of selling pressure has been removed at least temporarily by the removal of hedges against export sales in Canada estimated as high as 2,000,000 bushels. Although the local market felt the effects of this and some traders started off of higher prices, there has been little leadership to the buying side lately.

Market observers look for good buying of Canadian wheat by the United Kingdom before navigation closes on the St. Lawrence river as a result of the refusal of the British government to permit the preferential tariff regulations to apply to Canadian grain shipped through ports in the United States.

The British government ruling brought a little keener competition of Gulf offerings, but no American hard winter was reported sold yesterday. In the past Canadian shipper have depended to a large degree, on United States elevators for storage.

A number of local operators have been working on the bull side of corn for some time. These dealers pointed out that export business and use of corn for fuel may reduce the domestic supply materially and that next spring there may be a reduced acreage owing to the low price of grain this year.

Country offerings are becoming larger as farmers in some sections are being forced to dispose of old corn to make storage room for the new crop.

A few scattered export sales were reported yesterday, but prices continue above a basis where general business might be worked, local brokers said.

Most Chicago Stocks

Chicago—(P)—In most cases, shares tended downward on the Chicago Stock exchange today. No-bid-Sparks fell 2 points. Marshall Field lost nearly a point. Borg-Warner and Continental Chicago declined to a lesser extent. Haythorn advanced a little.

BREAKS COLLARBONE

Edward Plach, 1200 West-ave, broke his collarbone in a fall Thursday morning. It is reported that he fell while running across a field.

around 200 natives; nothing done early; sellers anxious sharply higher or 5.50 and above for good to choice slaughter lambs.
